

STORM DEADLISTS CUT TO 368; PENSACOLA AND MOBILE ISOLATED

Storm Horrors Told By Refugees Here

TWO TRAINS BRING FIRST SURVIVORS OUT OF FLORIDA

Pale Lips Tell Tales of Epic Tragedy and Stories of Human Fortitude.

CROWDS SEEK NEWS OF HOPE IN VAIN

Reports of Disaster Not Exaggerated, Eye Witnesses Declare—Miami Scene of Desolation.

BY LOY WARWICK.

Stories of horror, of chaos and ruin, of death and destruction, Monday night fell from the pale lips of the first survivors to reach Atlanta since the hurricane roared out of the southeast to lay Miami and her luckless sister cities in waste.

A little band of men and women, numbering in all not more than a dozen, arrived on the first refuge train to come into this city from Miami, bearing the first lip story of the disaster.

An hour later another Florida train—the Flamingo—rolled into the Terminal bearing survivors.

ANXIOUS CROWDS SEEK NEWS OF FRIENDS.

Anxious mothers and fathers, wives and husbands, hovered nervously about the train gates, awaiting the arrival of the first survivors, hoping against hope that they would bring some word of encouragement. They seized the passengers as they debarked from the train, and in pleading voices begged for a word on which they could base a hope that their loved ones were safe.

But the message these survivors brought was not of encouragement, instead, one which bore out the fears of all—that reports of the disaster have not been exaggerated.

Miami is torn and wrecked from one end to the other. Flagler street, around which many romances have been woven, covered with debris, washed by the mad waters of Biscayne bay and mauled by the most

Atlanta Quickly Pledges $20,000 Storm Relief; Contributions Are Growing

Help Florida--- And Help Her NOW

The big heart of Atlanta—of Georgia—must respond to Florida's call for help, and respond quickly. Hundreds are dead and thousands are homeless and suffering in Miami, and in the entire storm-stricken area.

Sanitation has been destroyed. There is no milk supply. The food and water supply is wholly inadequate. The danger of famine and pestilence is imminent.

The stricken section needs cots for the shelterless, medicines, foods, clothing, special foods for babies, everything that enters into the great resources of human relief.

With these it needs as imperatively the strengthening touch of human contact. It needs physicians, nurses!

The American Red Cross, with its usual promptness in every human emergency of the kind, has established its stations, and has since Sunday been organizing its relief system.

It must be tremendously reinforced in order to do the job. It is a tight now—not with the storm elements—but with the elements of nature that threaten further distress unless there may be an immediate arresting of those conditions that create disease and cause epidemic.

Florida is our neighbor. This is a cause that goes to the limit of human appeal. It touches our very hearthstones. Not one is excepted.

The Constitution has subscribed $1,000 to the relief fund and will promptly forward to the official relief organization all contributions that may be sent to this office.

Let them come, large or small! Every dollar will help.

The urgency of this appeal cannot be too strongly impressed.

WALKER EXTENDS MERCY TO NAPIER ON EVE OF DEATH

Commutation to Life Sentence Ordered by Governor in Case of Crisp County Man.

Acting on statements of the trial judge and solicitor in the case of Bunc Napier, Crisp county white man sentenced to be executed today, Governor Clifford Walker Monday commuted the death sentence of life imprisonment. Napier was convicted of criminal assault. The governor, in a statement made public with his order, said he commuted the sentence on the ground that examination of the evidence led him to doubt if the verdict of capital punishment in the case was justifiable.

When the application for commutation was presented to the governor, he granted Napier a 60-day respite. Napier was convicted of an attack on a 16-year-old white girl and was sentenced to the death penalty. The supreme court upheld this verdict and the prison commission declined to recommend clemency.

Following is the statement of the governor in the case:

"The trial judge certifies personally that upon mature consideration of the evidence, he is not entirely satisfied with the punishment fixed by the verdict; that there is grave doubt in his mind that the facts in the case justify capital punishment; the solicitor general who represented the state in the trial certifies in writing that on account of the peculiar nature of the evidence which is revealed by the record in the case, I am constrained to recommend that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment with the facts also 'strongly urge clemency. Competent and conscientious physicians certify that the facts demand a reduction of the penalty."

"This appeal for clemency is not based upon any palliation of the revolting crime against society or any sympathy for the criminal. It is based upon the conclusion, after mature deliberation, that the peculiar facts testified to by the prosecutrix herself demonstrate that there was an absence of that immature physical and mental development and that youthful innocence contemplated by the law in

FOUR ATLANTANS DIE IN HURRICANE; MANY ARE MISSING

Scores of Persons Reported Uninjured While Families Seek News of Many Others.

Out of the ruins left in the wake of the hurricane which devastated southern Florida, fragmentary news began to flow into Atlanta Monday over emergency wires to give sorrow or relief to an anxiety-stricken host of relatives and friends of persons in the path of the storm.

Four former Atlantans were killed and scores injured, while families of hundreds of Gate City folk in Miami were made happy by receipts of telegrams or other messages stating that senders were unhurt.

The casualty list in the Miami storm up to last night included four former Atlantans as follows: Mrs. Sara E. Head, formerly of Ansley street, Decatur; James H. (Pete) McAllister, former employee of The Constitution; and Isadore H. Schachter, former Atlanta business man, and Mrs. F. G. McCool, of Punta Rassa, Fla.

It was with horror and grief that Atlanta received detailed accounts of the storm toll and damage over Associated Press and other telegraphic service wires Monday as the work of checking up on fatalities and injuries went ahead slowly.

Ed Gurr Sought.

Ed Gurr, former basketball captain of the University of Georgia and a star on the A. C. basketball team in 1925, who was in Miami at the residence of Judge and Mrs. William Burwell, has not been heard from, and friends and relatives in Atlanta are much concerned as to his whereabouts. Mr. Gurr is the son of Mrs. Fort E. Land, of Macon, and is well known throughout the entire state.

Aaron B. Floyd, Jr., who works with the Federal Reserve bank here and who was in Miami on his vacation at the time of the storm, is being sought by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Floyd, of 307 Buena Vista avenue.

The family of C. W. Dillingham, representative of the Otis Elevator company, has received no communication from him since the disaster. He lives in Morningside, and was in Miami on business when the storm broke.

No information had been received late Monday night from Paul Wesley, well-known contractor, and his fam-

City Council Appropriates $10,000 for Relief Work in Stricken Sister City, Miami.

PLAN MASS MEET TO RAISE FUNDS

The Constitution Donates $1,000; Coca-Cola Company Contributes Sum of $5,000.

Heartstrings of Georgia and Atlanta have been deeply touched by the tragedy of the storm in southern Florida and aid will be rushed there at the earliest possible moment.

This assurance has been given in the movement of the local chapter of the American Red Cross to raise a fund of more than $100,000 in Atlanta alone to send relief to the storm devastated areas. While no definite amount has been set as a goal, leaders announced Monday night that the mark will be $100,000 or more.

Nearly $20,000 has been subscribed to the fund and much more is expected to be pledged at a mass meeting which will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Forsyth theater to carry on relief work on a comprehensive scale. Complete plans for the mass meeting were completed at a meeting of leaders of various Atlanta civic organizations Monday afternoon.

The call for the mass meeting was made by Mayor Walter A. Sims, at the request of the local chapter of American Red Cross. Subscriptions to the relief fund will be taken at the meeting.

Aiding the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross in the work of organizing for relief work is James F. Pieser, vice chairman of the national organization. He was on a speaking tour of the country at the time the storm broke and came to Atlanta to await the outcome to help in doing relief work. He will stay in Atlanta pending the news of storm damage in Pensacola, Mobile and other southern cities.

Among the largest donations for victims of the storm which swept the southern end of Georgia's sister state were an appropriation of $10,000 by city council for relief work in Miami; $5,000 from the Coca-Cola company; $1,000 by The Atlanta Constitution; $1,000 from the local office of the Adair Realty and Trust company; and $1,000 by The Atlanta Journal.

Atlanta Aids Stricken Miami.

In sending the gift from the city of Atlanta, a message was sent to the city of Miami by city council giving every assurance that other assistance will be given as needed. A call also was made upon the people of Atlanta in aiding the stricken area. The Fulton county commission is expected to call a meeting soon to make a similar donation.

Every unit of the local chapter of Red Cross has been thoroughly organized.

9 PERSONS HURT IN GEORGIA STORM

35 Houses Leveled as Cyclone Swoops Into Clay and Miller Counties; Church Upset.

Macon, Ga., September 20.—(AP)—One white man and eight negroes were injured this afternoon when a cyclone swept through Clay and Miller counties in south Georgia. Approximately 35 houses and buildings were leveled by the wind, according to reports reaching here. None of the injured is in a serious condition.

Near Arlington, in Miller county, 29 negro houses were destroyed, while a negro church was blown from its pillars. Part of the roof and two sides

LATE HURRICANE REPORTS REDUCE DEATH ESTIMATE

Losses Also Are Believed To Have Been Much Exaggerated by Early Figures From Florida.

MIAMI SHOWING GALLANT SPIRIT

Homes Hardest Hit in Storm Area; 10,000 of Them Are Reliably Reported Damaged.

BY SAM W. SMALL, (Special Staff Correspondent of The Constitution).

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 20.—As we approach nearer to the belt swept by the hurricane of Friday night and Saturday the exaggerated reports of deaths and losses diminish.

The thousand deaths first reported in the greater Miami area have been reduced in latest estimates to 125 with probably 100 in all at Hollywood, Ojus and Dania.

The losses of life at Clewiston on the south border of the lake and Moorehaven on the west shore are reported to have been numerous but no trustworthy authority has yet given an estimate of the total.

250 Lives Lost.

From what is now actually known the lives lost in the hurricane path from Miami Beach to Tampa should total around 250.

The money losses from damage to business houses and residences in the Miami area are figured by actuaries who surveyed the region Sunday at not more than $13,000,000 instead of the $100,000,000 estimated while the wreckage looked huge and far spread and excited eyes made the calculation. One of the largest building contractors who toured the path of the storm on Sunday said the total loss would be around $100,000,000.

Damages To Homes.

The bulk of the damages was done to homes. Some 10,000 of them in the hurricane track had roofs lifted or partially ripped away, windows and doors smashed in, porches demolished and light garages hammered to pieces. Eight thousand of them are dwellings of the simplest sort, not cost of construction and the restorations will not average $1,000 each. The losses in merchandise stocks and household goods in homes together will fall within $1,000,000.

Authorities of Dade county and Miami took prompt possession of the situation and have preserved order and property in almost perfect fashion. People here have shown the most of the calamity and unanimously declare, "We are here to stay and will soon be as usual."

Fine Spirit Shown.

The spirit of them is certainly as admirable as any shown by Americans at Chicago, Boston, Baltimore, Charleston, Johnstown, Galveston, or San Francisco in their great disaster. Pullman Superintendent Camp, of Atlanta, is on board this train, carrying supplies for employees and to feed as many destitute as 12 Pullman diners can cater to. In addition he is taking in candles, lanterns, and distilled water. The Pullman company is using all its available resources to help care for the extraordinary situation in the Miami district. Major Brown has been sent direct by Governor Martin to report all needs that the state can supply. The military, 25 units strong is reaching the city and, besides, but Governor Martin does not believe a martial law proclamation necessary. Wires from Miami not yet open to public.

ALABAMA TOWNS SUFFER HEAVILY

Fragmentary Reports From Pensacola and Mobile Fail To Relate Any Loss of Life.

Birmingham, Ala., September 20.—(AP)—The West Indian hurricane which took heavy toll in life and property damage in southeast Florida, today continued its sweep of destruction throughout northwest Florida and lower Alabama.

Mobile, so far, had stood the brunt of the blow with approximately small damage and no loss of life, according to meager reports reaching here. Smaller towns did not fare so well.

Hollywood With 75 Dead and 600 Injured Presents Pitiful Scene as Parents Search for Traces of Missing Ones.

$500,000 DAMAGE REPORTED CAUSED BY STORM IN MOBILE

Virtually Every Home and Business Building at Dania Is Wrecked—Ten Bodies Are Found—13 Are Dead at Fort Lauderdale.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The West Indian hurricane which, Saturday, swept the lower Florida east coast, causing known deaths that have mounted to 368 with more than 4,000 injured and $50,000,000 property damage Monday night, had isolated Pensacola and Mobile and was sweeping toward other gulf coast points and inland over southern Alabama and Mississippi.

Pensacola was cut off early Monday when the wind reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour. In the afternoon communication by wire with Mobile was severed with a 100-mile wind reported at 5 p. m. The tropical radio station operator at Mobile reported to the New Orleans station that heavy property damage, already amounting to at least $500,000, had been done. The last direct report from Pensacola came just before all wires were lost and told of the 100-mile wind.

While newspapermen and others struggled to reach the newly stricken cities to the westward, Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Hollywood, Dania, Clewiston, Moorehaven and other cities hit two days ago began to get out word of their plight and their needs. The known death list compiled from all sources was set at 368 with estimates of the final total ranging from 543 to 659 and with the known injured fixed at 1,532 and estimates fixing the total at from 3,961 to 4,061.

125 DECLARED DEAD IN MIAMI PROPER.

The Associated Press staff men who reached the East Coast storm area Sunday, went over the entire zone Monday. At night they returned to West Palm Beach with reports of 325 deaths, 40 missing, 4,000 injured and 40,000 homeless. They found 125 dead in Miami proper and 45 known dead in the suburbs, Coral Gables, Miami Shores, Little River and Hialeah. Hollywood reported 75 known dead with estimates of a probable death list of 100 when all debris has been cleared and a check-up made.

From Fort Lauderdale they brought a report of 13 known dead, 20 probably fatally wounded, 523 known injured and 7,000 homeless.

Ten bodies and 140 injured were at Dania; 5 dead and 40 hurt at Davie and one dead at each of Progresso and Pompano. Reports of 52 known deaths came from Clewiston and Moorehaven, with many more probable at the latter place.

Stories of wreckage that blocked roads and streets, fine homes and buildings in the cities wrecked or badly damaged were brought out. They reported water scarce and supplies short but with ample supplies coming in. Medical supplies of various kinds, especially tetanus serum, are needed in some places. Money to care for those who lost everything is worst needed now, however, officials said.

MARTIAL LAW RULES IN MOST OF CITIES.

Martial law is in force in most of the communities to prevent flooding of the district with persons whose presence is not necessary. Passengers arriving on trains are required to remain on the trains until questioned by authorities.

Funds for the relief of the victims of the storm were being raised throughout the country. In many places meetings have been called for Tuesday to start work of raising needed money. The Atlanta city council voted $10,000 and asked Fulton county to do as much. Business men will hold a meeting Tuesday to raise funds. The American Red Cross is sending workers and supplies to the district and Monday the full resources of the Fourth Army corps area was placed at the disposal of Governor Martin of Florida. A request was received to night by Brigadier General Hagood, commander of the fourth corps, from the adjutant general of Florida, for 1,000 army tents and 4,000 cots.

LIST OF INJURED WILL EXCEED 4,000. Miami, Fla., September 20.—(By The Associated Press.)—The known dead in the storm area as a result of Saturday's hurricane and tidal wave stood tonight at 325, the number of injured estimated at over 4,000, and the property damage was placed at $50,000,000.

Approximately 40 persons were missing.

Miami proper had 125 dead and approximately 2,000 injured; Miami suburbs, including Coral Gables, Miami Shores, Little River and Hialeah, total 45 dead and the injured was numbered into hundreds.

Greenville, Flomaton, Georgiana and Whistler, reporting serious property damage.

Much property damage resulted at Pensacola, about which city the gale appeared to center this forenoon. A fragmentary wireless message picked up here from Pensacola late today said the wind attained a velocity of 100 miles there and that much damage resulted. The city was isolated in so far as highway, rail and wire communication was concerned. There was no loss of life and no injuries reported.

No water had come into Mobile, but there was great apprehension. Many persons moved into the downtown section early today and spent the day in the hotels, churches and office buildings. Trees were uprooted and some windows were broken, but the damage was not material this far. The worst of the storm at Mobile was believed to have passed tonight.

Menger reports from south Alabama indicated that the center of the hurricane early tonight was some 100 miles northwest of Mobile, moving toward the Mississippi line. As it moved inland, reports indicated that it was spending its force, although 80-mile winds were reported some distance north of Mobile.

Wires were crippled in all directions and railroads experienced serious tieups in the storm area.

PENSACOLA AND MOBILE ARE HIT BY HURRICANE.

New Orleans, September 20.—(United News.)—The hurricane which struck the Gulf coast between Mobile and Pensacola this morning is still raging at Mobile, and is believed to be raging at Pensacola.

The wind at Mobile has been increasing all afternoon and a radio dispatch at 8 p. m. said that the radio station was about to be unroofed. As far as is known no lives have been lost, but it is thought considerable damage to property has been done.

Nothing has been heard from Pensacola since early this morning when a cable of 100 miles per hour was reported. The United States naval station here is now trying to reach the Pensacola air station by radio but has failed.

Rumors reaching Mobile say that the full fury of the hurricane was spent in the region of Period lay on the western Florida coast and that villages there were wiped out.

Trains are held up at Mobile, and the telephone and telegraph service east of the city has been destroyed. The tropical radio company's radio serial at Mobile has been blown down five times today, and the apparatus now is covered with canvas to keep it dry. The operator is sitting in a pool of water. The wind has been rising at New Orleans but it is not expected to reach dangerous force. Vessels which had tied up while the storm was in the Gulf are venturing down the river tonight.

scene in the storm area as scores of children cried for their parents and an equal number of adults, scantily clad, many in bathing suits, searched the wreckage of their homes for traces of loved ones now missing.

13 DEAD REPORTED AT FORT LAUDERDALE.

At Fort Lauderdale there were 13 dead, 20 probably fatally injured and 503 others injured being treated by the Red Cross, hospitals and emergency stations. It was said by Red Cross officials there that about 7,000 were dependent upon them.

At Dania there had been found 10 bodies and 130 persons injured. Virtually every home or business building was wrecked. At Dania, five were killed and 40 injured. Progresso and Pompano each had one dead.

Reports are that 41 dead have been located at Moorehaven and Clewiston across Lake Okechobee.

Because of the inaccessibility of the towns an accurate check tonight was impossible. It was indicated several hundred were injured.

Fifty persons were suffering from injuries at Progresso and three at Pompano. At Fort Lauderdale, two, 40,000 STORM VICTIMS ARE MADE HOMELESS.

Throughout the storm area it was estimated conservatively that 40,000 were homeless and virtually without clothing or immediate methods to re-coup their loss.

Martial law, declared Saturday, continued in effect throughout the storm area until late this evening when the restrictions in Miami were modified. None was allowed during the day to enter the stricken area except upon some mission relief, official business of the government or state or for the press of the nation. Hundreds were turned back by the soldiers despite their pleas that relatives were in the storm area and had not been heard from. It was considered best until things had better adjusted themselves that the water and food supply be not further strained by additional months to feed.

Sanitary engineers and inspectors were mobilized today to avert serious epidemics in the path cut by the hurricanes.

Huge signs now warn the people of the stricken area that drinking water must be boiled 20 minutes. The signs are not advice but orders from the health departments of the cities affected, posted and enforced by the authorities of the martial government which temporarily govern.

SEWER AND WATER SYSTEMS CRIPPLED.

Sewer systems and water systems generally were crippled, but trainloads of water arrived last night and city officials announced today that Miami and Hollywood water plants were back in commission.

Surgeons who have been working day and night attending the thousands said today that they were badly in need of lockjaw serum. Many of those injured were cut and scratched by tin, hurled from the roofs of houses by the winds.

The relief committees in the towns and cities visited by the hurricane were almost unanimous today in asking that no further supplies be sent them but that money be sent instead.

The supplies of food, water, and clothing available, en route or procured, is sufficient to meet all requirements it was stated, but the need is for public donations from all over the world to the relief of the victims.

Orphans must be clothed, given homes and educated and widows and aged people must be succored. Too, there are many who will be helpless from injuries received.

ATLANTA NEWSPAPER MEN INSPECT STORM AREA.

Newspapermen who yesterday flew from Atlanta to inspect the damage by plane, went over the entire storm area today by automobile and afoot. The scene was reminiscent of the shell war and the Belgian and French during the world war. Giant palms and towering pines and oaks were snapped in many pieces or uprooted and creased over one another. Gaping holes left by the roots were filled with mud and debris cluttered water, again reminiscent of the battlefields.

PICKETS PATROL DESOLATE STREETS.

Jacksonville, Fla., September 20.—(AP)—Today with pickets and national guardsmen patrolling the streets, the community from Delray to Key Largo and with the frightful toll of 500 dead, 5,000 injured and property losses estimated at $100,000,000, the county is rebuilding the staff correspondent of the Jacksonville Journal telephoned his newspaper this afternoon.

From Delray to Key Largo the countryside is a vast ruin, the correspondent said. The last of the hurricane took everything before it. Tall trees went down in wind rows. Houses were smashed flat, in many instances crushing whole families when they were inside. Business places, filling stations and roadside stands were picked up and whirled crazily to pieces. On every road leading in, soldiers stand guard.

Dade county is without water as well as electricity. Every one entering the devastated region is challenged and is refused admission unless he has legitimate business.

Looting began in Miami, Coral Gables and Hialeah last night, but was stopped by committees of citizens who were assembled hastily. Looters were later shot by the police.

RELIEF SUPPLIES SENT TO FLORIDA

Assistance in the form of tents and cots are being rushed into Florida from Fort McCallan, Ala., at the order of General Johnson Hago 1, commander of the fourth corps area here.

A call for 1,000 tents and 4,000 cots was made through Colonel Splenger, stationed with the national guard at St. Augustine, Fla. The call was relayed to General Hago by Colonel Splenger from the director of Red Cross work at Miami. The order was sent immediately to Fort McCallan to ship the tents and cots.

General Hago also wired Governor Martin, of Florida, offering him troops, tents, cots, medical aid, rolling kitchens and airplanes for the storm region. He expects an answer from the governor today. These supplies will be furnished by the fourth corps area.

Acting on the orders of the secretary of war, General Hago dispatched Colonel Percy L. Jones, of the Georgia national guard, to Miami to make a complete survey of the situation of the storm area. He left Atlanta early Monday night and will wire his findings immediately after a survey.

In addition to this aid, Colonel Mark Brooke, of the engineering corps at Jacksonville left for Miami to make a personal survey of the needs there and General Hago expects to receive word from him this morning.

"We will do everything in our power to relieve the stricken area," General Hago said Monday night. "And as soon as we can ascertain the needs there we will rush assistance to the people."

Drs. Pratt Cheek and Bradley Davis left this afternoon for the storm stricken area to render medical relief. Gainesville has notified the Florida authorities that further financial help will be forthcoming if needed.

OFFICIALS SPEED TO STRICKEN ZONE.

Columbia, S. C., September 20.—(AP)—Traveling on a special train over the Seaboard Air Line railroad, John A. Young, owner and developer of Hollywood, and Mayor E. C. Kempf, of Miami, arrived in Columbia at 3 o'clock this afternoon and left five minutes later for Hollywood.

Mayor Romph said that he had no late advices from Miami but from the messages received on board the special train said that New York that he believed reports from the stricken area in regard to property loss had been exaggerated.

Mr. Young stated that from personal messages he understood all of the permanent buildings, hotels, etc., at Hollywood were "all right" and from that he took it that if damaged at all, it was very slight.

The special train on which the party is traveling is being operated for Mr. Young.

KEY WEST SUFFERED NO LOSS OF LIFE.

Norfolk, Va., September 20.—(AP)—The following communication was received by wireless here this afternoon from the commandant of the seventh naval district at Key West:

"Please give all possible publicity to the effect that Key West suffered no damage or injuries from recent hurricane."

Reports were received during the day stating that Key West had been damaged and 38 casualties were reported.

CAPTAIN SHERMAN LOST AND SHIP IS DESTROYED.

Lake Worth, Fla., September 20.—(AP)—Captain George O. Sherman of the schooner Delta, bound from Gulfport, Miss., to Nassau, was lost when his ship was broken to pieces near here Saturday morning. About 4 o'clock, Captain H. Walters, also of the Delta, was seriously cut and injured when he and five other members of the crew were washed from the ship. All except Captain Sherman managed to reach shore here. The ship pounded itself to pieces. The Delta was 80 miles from Nassau when the first storm hit her Friday evening and caused her to change course. She was owned by A. S. Foster of Mobile, Ala.

Don't Spend

for foods without flavor

Quick Quaker

THE art of making meals attractive is in serving flavorful foods. In breakfast oats see that you get the Quaker brand. The difference in flavor is amazing.

Some 50 years were spent perfecting Quaker flavor. No other oats offers it to you. Yet the price you pay is the same.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Makes the richest breakfast now the quickest.

Get Quick Quaker or regular Quaker Oats today for a richer breakfast tomorrow.

RELIEF SUPPLIES SENT TO FLORIDA

Assistance in the form of tents and cots are being rushed into Florida from Fort McCallan, Ala., at the order of General Johnson Hago 1, commander of the fourth corps area here.

A call for 1,000 tents and 4,000 cots was made through Colonel Splenger, stationed with the national guard at St. Augustine, Fla. The call was relayed to General Hago by Colonel Splenger from the director of Red Cross work at Miami. The order was sent immediately to Fort McCallan to ship the tents and cots.

General Hago also wired Governor Martin, of Florida, offering him troops, tents, cots, medical aid, rolling kitchens and airplanes for the storm region. He expects an answer from the governor today. These supplies will be furnished by the fourth corps area.

Acting on the orders of the secretary of war, General Hago dispatched Colonel Percy L. Jones, of the Georgia national guard, to Miami to make a complete survey of the situation of the storm area. He left Atlanta early Monday night and will wire his findings immediately after a survey.

In addition to this aid, Colonel Mark Brooke, of the engineering corps at Jacksonville left for Miami to make a personal survey of the needs there and General Hago expects to receive word from him this morning.

"We will do everything in our power to relieve the stricken area," General Hago said Monday night. "And as soon as we can ascertain the needs there we will rush assistance to the people."

000 for relief of the Florida storm sufferers from Gainesville.

HOWARD THEATER TO GIVE BENEFIT.

Another contributor to the relief of the sufferers is the Howard theater. Plans have been completed to stage a mammoth benefit performance during the week, according to Ernest Morrison, managing director, who said Monday night that cooperation for this has been promised the management from the musicians', stage mechanics' and operators' unions.

This contribution by the Howard theater will be a part of that given by the Public Theaters corporation in all parts of the country. The idea was first conceived by Sam Katz, president of the corporation, and all theaters in the chain will give like performances.

Promise that the performance will be one of the most elaborate seen in Atlanta in months was made by Mr. Morrison. He said that only the highest class of entertainment would be offered and every effort will be made to draw a record crowd. Exact time and the full program of the performance will be given later when all arrangements have been completed.

Asks Aid To Red Cross.

Atlanta support for the relief work in progress in Florida under direction of the American Red Cross was urged in a statement issued Monday by Bayne Gibson, president of the Atlanta Community Chest.

The statement was issued at the request of Robert S. Parker, president of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross, to clarify the connection between the Community Chest and the local Red Cross branch.

"The Community Chest supplies support to the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross only in sufficient amount to maintain its regular pro-

From Georgia Herds and Georgia Dairies Comes This Richer, Purer, Safer Milk

Pedigree Milk is a 100 per cent Georgia product. It comes, every drop of it, from selected Georgia herds and inspected Georgia dairies. It is pasteurized in the most modern pasteurization plant of the South, located in Atlanta, Georgia, and operated by citizens of this city and of this state.

Georgia can well be proud of Pedigree products, for no state in the union can boast of finer, purer or richer milk, cream or buttermilk. Most important of all, it is absolutely scientifically purified by the pasteurization process.

Study the city reports which show the bacteria count of all milk sold on the Atlanta market. Note how Pedigree Milk is consistently in the leadership as far as low bacteria count is concerned. To the scientist that low bacteria count means something. To the housewife anxious to safeguard the health of her children and of her family, it should mean infinitely more.

Order Pedigree Milk, Cream and Buttermilk from your drug store, favorite fountain or grocery. Ask for it at hotels, cafes and restaurants when dining away from home.

Nine Great American Racing Stars buy The Greatest BUICK Ever Built

Frank Lockhart
"After a rigid test, I am convinced the 1927 Buick has advanced engineering ideas, which make it superior to any motor car built. I purchased this car on its performance, and roadability, which I must have in making the racing circuit from Coast to Coast."

Bennett Hill
"To know there's a real car under you—that's what makes auto-mobiling—that's why my new Buick—with its silent power-flow and its reliable four-wheel brakes makes me feel better than any other car I have ever wheeled."

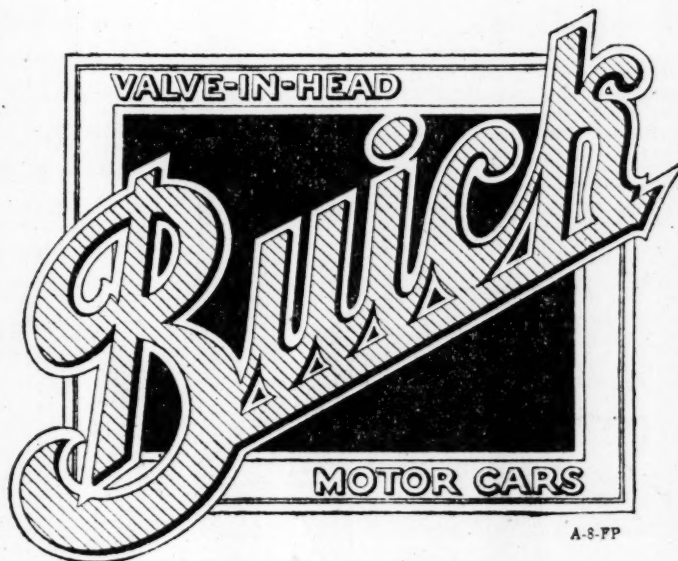

Frank Elliott
"From zero to seventy, there isn't a change in the performance of Buick. I have never driven a car before that was absolutely without a speed where vibration took the joy out of driving. Buick has certainly set a mark for perfect design and workmanship in passenger car construction."

Earl Cooper
"My mechanic best expressed my opinion of the 1927 Buick, when he said: 'The smoothness of electricity most nearly expresses the feeling its silent power-flow gives you.'"

Dave Lewis
"The new 1927 Buick convinces me that Buick constantly lives up to its promise—'When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them.'"

Cliff Woodbury
"Buick delivers the goods. I never worry about getting there and back—and this new car does it so easily and so quietly that you never know there's an engine under the hood."

Fred Comer
"I bought a Buick because I wanted the most automobile I could get for the money spent—most in mechanical perfection—most in style and comfort. Buick gives me all, plus the snappiest passenger job I have ever handled."

Within thirty days after its introduction, the Greatest Buick Ever Built received one of the greatest tributes ever paid a motor car.

Nine internationally famous A. A. A. speedway stars singled it out above all other cars for their personal use and for their families!

Some of these men are graduate engineers. Others are veteran automobile designers. All of them know motor cars—probably as no other group of nine men in the world.

They have learned the vital necessity of fine engineering, rugged construction and brakes that never fail. They know the importance of stamina and riding comfort. They instantly recognize those qualities of performance that lift a car above the commonplace.

Almost daily they drive the costliest types of hand-constructed automobiles being built today—yet read what they say about Buick and why they chose it for themselves.

Here is expert opinion on those qualities of vibrationless performance, efficient operation, handling safety and brilliant beauty, which stamp the Greatest Buick Ever Built as the greatest motor car value ever offered.

Peter De Paolo
"They named it correctly when they called it the Greatest Buick Ever Built. But they might have added, 'And the greatest value ever offered.' I still think I'm not wasting my money by owning two Buicks."

Bob McDonogh
"I thought I could judge the speed of a car. The smooth vibrationless operation of my new Buick fools me and I can't tell within 20 miles an hour of its speed unless I watch the gauge. Never have I driven a car that operates with as little effort."

Vote Tomorrow FOR

Thomas H. Goodwin

CANDIDATE FOR RECORDER SECOND DIVISION RECORDER'S COURT

Mr. Goodwin is making a strong race and his friends are predicting his election. Mr. Goodwin is a native Georgian, has lived most of his life in Atlanta, having practiced law in the courts for twenty-six years, served in the city council, is affiliated with various civic organizations, and has always taken an active interest in matters of public welfare and in the advancement of Atlanta as the metropolis of the south.

Mr. Goodwin was urged by his friends to enter the race as recorder, knowing his capabilities and qualifications for the place, realizing that never in the history of Atlanta has the need seemed so apparent for capable men to execute the law, whose honesty and integrity cannot be questioned.

Mr. Goodwin stands for law enforcement, all persons equal before the law and justice tempered with mercy—a court not for revenue but for a fair and impartial hearing for all. THANKS FOR YOUR VOTE. (Committee) the following cities, which was compiled at 4 p. m., is: Miami 101, Hollywood 23, Ft. Lauderdale 25, Moorehaven 40, Miami Beach 52. Significance of this latest official total is that the maximum number of dead in the entire storm area cannot amount to more than 400, according to officials having definite knowledge of their areas. The total may be less. This official list of the dead omits conjecture of the number of deaths in outlying district where no definite number has been established and only rumors prevail.

It shows that in areas where loss of life was greatest, areas where the storm struck with maximum fury, the death toll was not as first set at 200. Official figures show that only 53 are actually known.

In spite of unbased rumors that the dead in the Florida hurricane mounted four thousands, the United News has at all times maintained that not more than 500 were dead.

MANY BANKS REOPEN DURING PAST WEEK

Six new banks have opened in the last week, or are in the process of organization, in the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia, according to reports to the Southern Banker, of Atlanta. Four banks in Florida, which closed recently have just been reopened.

PROTEST ARRESTS FOR STOP FAILURE BY NIGHT DRIVERS

A petition signed by more than 1,000 Atlantans vigorously protesting the arrest of automobile drivers who failed to stop at boulevard at night was submitted to city council Monday afternoon and was referred to the traffic committee for investigation and report.

The petition set out that the traffic stop signs were not illuminated and therefore could not be seen at night and that unless the drivers were thoroughly familiar with the location of such signs they could not comply with the law. The petitioners requested council to abandon the practice of making arrests or have the boulevard stop signs illuminated.

COUNCIL APPROVES "AIR MAIL DAY COST"

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the landing field committee of city council, Monday reported to council that the committee is proceeding at once to install a telephone, running water and a ladies' rest and wash room at Candler field.

Following Chairman Hartsfield's request council approved an expenditure of $145 which was used to defray expenses of "Air Mail day", which occurred on September 15 at the field.

G. M. A. LAUNCHES 1926-27 SESSION MONDAY MORNING

Classes of the Georgia Military academy, at College Park, formally met Monday for the first time in the 1926-27 session which promises to be one of the best in the 27 years of that institution's history, according to Colonel J. C. Woodward, who has been head of the school for 28 years.

The three new buildings erected on the campus provide the large student body with ample room which was badly needed. Enrollment and classification of students, which took place last week, revealed the fact that 23 states and two foreign countries are represented among those matriculated, and that nearly half of the total student body comes from Florida cities. Included in the new members added to the faculty are Major W. L. Clark, dean and professor of mathematics, formerly at the Tennessee Military institute; Captain William Roe Brewster, assistant commandant and instructor in mathematics, who formerly was on duty in the Canal Zone, and Captain R. H. Taliaferro, instructor of shops and coaching, a graduate

MAN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO ON MONDAY

C. W. Smith, 50, of 1411 South Gordon street, West End, was knocked down by an automobile early Monday night near his home, according to information given to police. The automobile that injured Mr. Smith was driven by S. D. Mullinaux, of 1492 South Gordon street, who took the injured man to his home and then summoned a family physician, according to witnesses.

Meeting Postponed.

The open air meeting of the Ninth ward civic forum scheduled for Monday night in Valerdale park, Inman Park was postponed due to the rain and will be held at a later date, it was announced by John M. Miller, chairman of the forum.

Who Dares Be Too Positive About the Teeth?

The most positive claims have been made regarding the prevalence of pyorrhea, and the causes, treatment and prevention of tooth decay. But see how the cool sanity of scientific research clears doubt and confusion away.

THE LIFE EXTENSION INSTITUTE recently examined nearly 17,000 policy holders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and found that only 1 in 20 had pyorrhea—only 5.7% between the ages of 35 and 44; only 7.1% between 45 and 54; only 7.4% past 54.

Again, the eminent authorities at Johns Hopkins University admit that they do not actually know what causes tooth decay. They believe that it is faulty nutrition, but they are not sure.

And leading dentists point out that the first permanent molars of most children, which appear in the mouth at about the sixth year, have deep fissures. These cannot be reached by a tooth-brush. And unless they are properly filled, they harbor fermenting food particles and thus invite premature decay.

In the light of these scientific revelations, is it safe to desire or wise to expect more from a dentifrice than thorough tooth-cleaning?

Only this reasonable, truthful claim is made for DR. LYON'S—that it contains just the right ingredients, of exactly the right quality, and in precisely the right proportions to safely and effectively clean and polish the teeth, and to enhance their dazzling whiteness and lustre.

MAKE SURE that all surfaces of yours and your children's teeth are put in proper condition by your dentist so that they can be easily reached by a tooth-brush. Then you can absolutely rely on DR. LYON'S to keep them free from unsightly stains and from enamel-weakening tartar or mucin plaques.

It is the only dentifrice old enough to prove that it can preserve teeth for life. It has flourished for 60 years, because for 60 years it has consistently been the safest and best dentifrice.

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

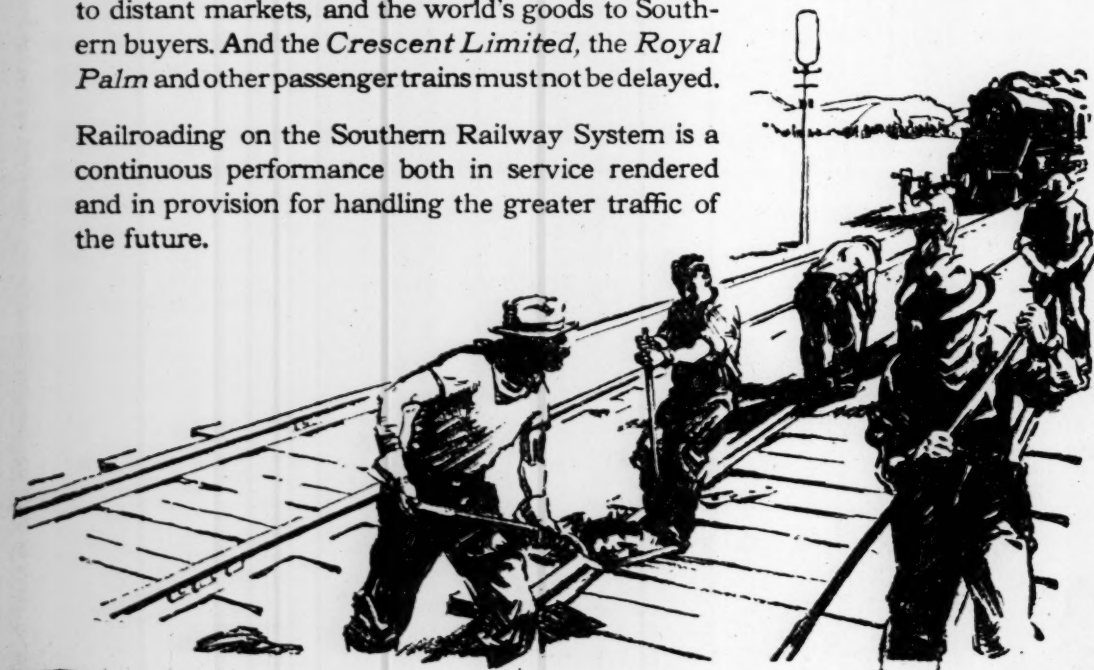

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing train-loads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a railroad wears out. Last year about $80,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

Martial Law Rules As Miami Beach Takes Toll of Dead

Hundreds Made Homeless and Many Bodies Believed Hidden in Wreckage of Buildings.

BY AL RECK.

Miami Beach, Fla., September 20.—With military authorities in complete charge and martial law superceding all other regulations, Miami Beach tonight started taking toll of loss of life and property.

Thousands are flocking to the city hall where permits are being issued. All communication between Miami Beach has been cut off, no one being permitted to enter or leave Miami Beach without a military permit. All persons are ordered off the streets at 9:30 at night. Very little looting has been reported and such few cases as have reached the police have been handled with drastic measures.

Dig Dead From Ruins.
Ambulances are to be seen everywhere as bodies of dead are found beneath the wreckage and along the water front. Police and military authorities declare it will be several days before any definite estimate as to the number of dead can be made. In many instances it is feared many have perished beneath wreckage.

Hundreds of negroes and laborers are being rushed from Miami to the beach to search the wreckage. Another corps of workers have started searching the debris along both causeways for floating bodies.

It is doubtful whether a single building on Miami Beach escaped damage during the hurricane. More than two-thirds of all buildings on South Beach were completely wrecked and that the loss of life was no greater is considered a miracle by authorities. The new million dollar pier which was just being completed is wrecked.

Beach Casinos In Ruins.
The south beach casinos are in ruins and piles of debris more than 50 feet high block Ocean drive. All of the large apartment houses at South Beach were either leveled or unroofed, hundreds being made homeless. Five big garages all filled with automobiles were among the first buildings to collapse.

The Western Union telegraph office and all buildings on Fifth street were wrecked. The United States postoffice was partially wrecked. The causeway is impassable to motor cars and in many places is but a few feet wide. Every inch of the street car tracks across the causeway has been ripped out and in many cases are in the bay. Five big barges are on the causeway in different places and two tramp steamers crashed into the Miami beach end of the viaduct. Not a telephone or telegraph pole was left standing. More than 50 automobiles caught in the storm on the causeway are in the water and pointing east a great loss of life was the result. A search is being made for bodies.

The plant of Miami Life, a weekly newspaper, is in ruins. The Fleetwood hotel was partially gutted but without the gale. The Floridaian also suffered. The Miami Beach police station was gutted but the buildings did not collapse. Police officers have been on continuous duty since the storm started. Hundreds of deputies have been sworn in to maintain order. Chief Wood is in charge.

The Florida Catastrophe

The Constitution has kept you fully informed of the extent of the Florida horror. Every bit of information that could be obtained has been printed—that is the object of a newspaper, and The Constitution has performed its duty well.

But when you have read the news, give attention to the advertisements. We, who were fortunate enough to be far from the path of the hurricane, must go right on with our daily affairs, and that means we must do a certain amount of buying every day.

So, no matter how engrossing the news may be, always give a few moments of your time to the advertisements in The Constitution. You're sure to find something you desire offered at a bargain.

STATEMENT OF DR. L. N. HUFF

Dr. L. N. HUFF, Candidate for Mayor
PREMIUM ON EFFICIENCY

"Men and women employed in the public service should be made to feel that the public puts a premium on efficiency and loyalty. Firemen, policemen, sanitary inspectors, waterworks men, all employees having families to support, should be paid enough to maintain these families in comfort and give their children the best advantages. Especially ought a premium be placed on the service of city school teachers, who mould the future citizens. In every respect we should deal with our public service employees in that progressive spirit of consideration, adequate compensation and mutual good will which the business world is exemplifying.

"What is good policy for a business concern in dealing with its people should be likewise good policy for a city government. A business concern which demonstrates a genuine interest in the prosperity and welfare of its employees is usually repaid in loyalty and production. My policy as mayor would be to cultivate in all departments that esprit de corps which underlies the success of every big enterprise, and to require of all in every department a full day's service for a full day's pay.

"These are the big things as I look at them—our streets, our schools, our parks, our public service at every point of contact where the personal equation counts for so much.

"All departments of the public service, such as waterworks, sanitation, health, hospitals, fire and police, construction, etc., should be surveyed ahead for at least ten years, and definite programs mapped out and followed from year to year. Only by planning for the future is it possible to keep abreast of the requirements of a growing population.

"Our people so wonderfully endowed with energy and enthusiasm would rejoice in the opportunity to throw their whole united strength into a great forward movement. But we cannot move forward until we put an end to this hatred and strife. Such is my platform—peace first; then progress. On it I submit my candidacy to the rational intelligence of the men and women of Atlanta."

I ask your support, and will be grateful for it, and honored by it, and I pledge you a clean, progressive administration.

Respectfully submitted,

L. N. HUFF.

I will speak three times tonight and invite all.

DULLES TESTIFIES ON GERMAN CLAIM

New York, September 20.—(AP)—John Foster Dulles testified today in the Daugherty-Miller trial how he was unable to get approval of the American Metals company claim from government departments, which put the claim through when he was superseded as attorney for the German stockholders by John T. King, republican national committeeman.

Dulles was put on the stand by the government, which is attempting to prove that King used part of a fee of $441,000 given him by Richard Merton, German magnate, who came to this country to obtain release of the proceeds of $7,000,000 assets of the company, as graft money to have the claim rushed through the offices of Harry M. Daugherty, president of the American Metals company, and Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian.

When Merton first came to this country in connection with the case of the American Metals company, part of the assets of which had been impounded under the trading with the enemy act, he retained Dulles to take the matter up with the government. Dulles testified today that he went to Washington and consulted George E. Williams, first assistant to Miller, as to whether such a claim had a chance of being passed upon favorably.

Williams, he said, referred him to the department of justice, where he talked with two assistant attorney generals who reported after hearing the main facts of the case that the claim would have to be adjudicated by a court. Dulles then returned to New York, where he reported to Merton and some time later, Merton dropped him as his attorney and gave King a $50,000 retainer to continue the matter.

Dulles' appearance on the witness stand was the signal for spirited objections by counsel for both defendants, when United States Attorney Buckner replied that he was merely attempting to show the different manner of treatment accorded Dulles and Jesse Smith, Daugherty's unofficial assistant who, it has been testified, helped King rush the German claims through; Max D. Steuer, Daugherty's chief counsel, made a motion for a mistrial, which was denied by Judge Mack, however, ruled that mention of Smith's name in this connection was not cause for such action and the questioning proceeded.

The session for the day ended with Dulles still on the stand and both Steuer and William Rand, Miller's chief counsel, leaning over the judge's bench, arguing against the procedure of Buckner's questioning.

Objections Mark Trial.
The trial today was marked by heated objections on Steuer's part against the entering of testimony intended to prove only the guilt of Miller and not in any way connected with Daugherty. He was overruled on every objection.

RINGWORMS ON FACE AND ARMS

Itched Badly. Suffered 2 Years. Cuticura Heals.

"I was bothered with ringworms that affected my face and arms. They formed little blisters and my face looked terrible. The ringworms itched badly and when I scratched it caused eruptions. Sometimes my clothing aggravated the blisters on my arms causing them to be awfully sore. I suffered with them for two years."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they relieved me in three days. I continued using them and in four weeks was healed, after using two cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment." (Signed) Miss Lillie C. Ford, R. 1, Box 26, Rentleville, Okla.

FOUR BANDITS LOOT BANK OF MILLION

Armed Men Hold Up Columbus Bank and Escape With $1,000,000 in Securities, $10,000 in Cash.

Columbus, Miss., September 20.—(AP)—Four armed men obtained one million dollars in securities and $10,000 in currency when they robbed the First National bank here this afternoon and escaped.

One-third of the securities are negotiable. They herded patrons and bank employees into a vault, scoured the valuables into bags they carried and fled in their automobile, in which a fifth man served as a lookout and chauffeur.

The men were dressed in overalls and attracted little attention when they entered the bank shortly before closing time. They overhauled $2,500 in cash and $200,000 in bonds.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

This new combination of yeast vitamins with vegetable iron builds up the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamins that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamin food but not until we perfected "Ironized Yeast"—which comes in a concentrated tablet form—was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

"Vegetable Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements; therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight or how much underweight you are, "Ironized Yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 40-tablet package, or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Desk 208, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

"My Life Story"

Written by Rudolph Valentino

Rudolph Valentino in an informal pose, resting after one of his daredevil auto spins. His pipe was a constant companion of his dream hours.

14TH INSTALLMENT. Rudolph Valentino confesses he had a distinct flair for speed. In this installment of his own intimate story of his life he tells how he gayly dived with death on the motor trip to Nice to visit Natacha's parents at the Chateau Les Pins. "Many and many a time," he writes, "I took my life between my two careless hands and flung it earthward, skyward, seaward, only to have it returned to me, laughing, intact, unafraid."

"And poor Natacha! I nearly drove my beloved frantic. But the thrill of speed was upon me. Ever faster, faster—ninety miles an hour! Read Rudy, as he describes lovely women—as only 'The Great Lover' can describe them. You begin to realize, after reading this intimate heart-throbbing narrative, the cause of 'The Shell's' power over feminine hearts."

(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution.) The speed I had maintained on our motor trip to Nice was beginning to tell on Natacha—the combination of speed and distance. Not to mention the disagreeable fumes of dust and dirt, which both men and little that they frequently forgot or neglect to consider how much they do bother women.

Rouges, I must say, is where Philippe the Beautiful and his Italian wife, an "Ester" or a "Modic," I forget which, he buried. The cathedral was closed as we sped by, and as we wanted to make Nice in the evening, we kept on going.

Natacha Nervous. We had to go through Grenoble. There are two roads to Nice. One goes through Lyons; the other goes through Grenoble and Dijon. Of course, it can be used only in summer. In winter it is full of snow and quite impassable.

Realizing that I had quite a spin ahead of me, I went right on, "regardless," as Natacha would doubtless describe it. So much so that I drove Natacha nearly frantic. She told me that she expected every revolution of the wheel would be the last one—for the wheel, for her and for myself.

But, the gods being with us, we finally arrived in Nice at 9 o'clock in the evening—and no thanks to me, either. I was told in rather wobbly accents by Natacha.

Easy for Tourists. Perhaps she was right. As a matter of fact, not only the gods but the roads were with me on my trip to Nice. The roads are exceptionally good, and in each town there are huge posters where one can see the names and directions without the bothersome slowing down and inquiring here and there and everywhere. The characters on the posters are fully six inches high, so that one can decipher them easily going ninety miles an hour, which is practically, if not literally, what I did.

Oh, yes, and I had another help, too—a very great one. I flatter myself on my sense of direction, but perhaps I should first of all flatter the Royal Auto Club of Paris. This commendable organization made me a chart of the town and roads. Each separate and individual town has a red stone with the number of the road in black thereon, thus dramatically and definitely marking it.

Even the roads play the Rouge et for the fact that I kept the car on the road when it had every appearance of leaving it, wheel by wheel.

Tribute To Women. Natacha is nervous enough. All women, all beautiful women, surely, are highly, delicately and very finely organized.

They are strung like a priceless Stradivarius that she was.

They respond as an apple tree responds to April breezes.

But if Natacha had not had, as well, a nerve of steel and so genuine an appreciation for what she could see of the scenery as we sped through it, no doubt she would have been even more unstrung than she was.

It is trying to think that every revolution of the wheel is going to be the last. I know—I suppose I always have thought—that I am more or less protected by the gods. Swept, as it were, by their wings, for I have taken, many and many a time, my life between my two careless hands and have flung it earthward, skyward, seaward, only to have it returned to me, laughing, intact and unafraid.

A Safe Arrival. Natacha says she thinks the gods have nothing to do with motorizing—and less to do with motorists of my particular genius or species or whatever you call them.

But the point of this night's writing is that we finally and securely arrived at the Chateau Jean Les Pins at nine o'clock. The stir and welcome, the giving and taking of the story of our trip, the solicitude and mutual talk of the future. I will tell when I write my diary tomorrow.

It has been all that I could do to write what I have written here tonight. Natacha says that I seem to be possessed of, and by this diary of mine. That no doubt with my last expiring breath I would inscribe some theory, some philosophy or some doctrine of the trip we are taking. I have written this installment tonight not only practically, but literally with pain.

Hands Powerless. My hands practically and literally refuse to close. My index fingers are all but paralyzed. Natacha pricked my hand with a pin and I will swear that I couldn't feel it—all from grasping the wheel as I have been grasping it on our ride from Avignon and Paris.

I have calluses all over both hands, and my shoulder and arm muscles are horribly out of commission from the terrific pumping up and down in the narrow mountain passes. Somehow, I don't complain. The trip was joyously worth the pain. I feel now—and so is writing in this diary of mine.

Whenever I arrive in a new spot, or whenever a certain lapse of the journey has reached its end, I am impelled by a furious desire to get it all down in black and white. I must have been bitten by the phobia of the autobiographer. I think it comes largely from my love of this trip and my desire to immortalize it, to give it permanence and lasting life.

By writing it all down, without forgetting so much as a thought, I may be able to distill a certain essence from it to remind me of it all in other days. Or I can take Paris and Deauville, London and Normandy, Avignon and Juan Les Pins and keep them all with me, wherever I am, wherever I go, concrete, intact, mine as I found them.

A Memorable Day. But now I shall go to bed. And surely, surely, I shall sleep, ought I never I have slept before. I can feel sleep drugging my weary eyes, until the lids close of their own accord and I have to open them again by sheer force of will. I can feel sleep creeping up, up, covering my limbs, my arms, my tired head, as though a warm garment were being drawn over me, softly, almost imperceptibly, obscuring me.

We have had a delicious first day—Natacha and I.

One of the really pleasurable excitements of life is getting together in a family group after the group has been separated and dispersed for a considerable period of time.

Natacha's mother and father, Muzie and Uncle Dick (Mr. and Mrs. Houdnut), came to Nice a year ago to rebuild and "do over" the chateau which Uncle Dick had given over to the government as a hospital during the war. When he retired from business on for years and always said that when Uncle Dick should have retired from business they would make Nice their permanent home.

Realizing Dreams. It seems to me a fascinating, no, a very satisfactory, an eminently satisfactory thing, to have known so well as they did what they wanted to do, where they wanted to go, and then to see that dream take size and shape before their very eyes—a dream hewn out of granite and made to live for all who pass to see.

Uncle Dick bought the villa from a Russian prince who had played at Monte Carlo and had lost all of his money.

Natacha and I claimed, as we roamed about the lovely, peaceful, sloping grounds, that the fact of this still lingered with the chateau. One could feel somehow about it that tragedies had been lived here, made a little lighter, a little easier to bear because of the sheer beauty of the place. It has marvelous grounds and the sun and air, the sense of peace and beauty, must have, I think, calmed the sick terror and distortion in many a poor fellow's rattled heart. I like to think so, at any rate.

Changing a Chateau. After the war was over Muzie and Uncle Dick but the place back in shape. Of course it needed a lot of alteration and remodeling and doing over after five years—and strenuous years at that.

Muzie didn't like the interior, and so they did that all over again. It was originally of a sort of Moorish design, which is all right for a Russian prince, but doesn't as a rule, suit the American taste so well. Muzie particularly favors Louis XVI, and he has taken them an entire year to make the chateau into a Louis XVI place. As a matter of fact, they still have two or three rooms to do.

Well, of course, they had to hear from our own lips all that had happened to us in the past year, despite the fact that our letters and the papers had carried veritable bundles of those important happenings back and forth between us. It is so much more exciting to say, "Such and such a thing took place on such and such a day," and then to have the family "Oh!" and "Ah!" exclaimatory before your very eyes.

Happy Gossiping. We had to tell them where we were living and whom we had been seeing and what we were planning and how we felt about this and how we felt about that. We answered numerous inquiries about mutual friends and the friends of friends, and all knew about this or that birth, death or scandal. All of the customary family gossip was exchanged and then interchanged again.

We went over all of the details of our trip—with extras added on. It was great fun. A constant round of "Natacha, do tell me about this," or "Rudy, I hear so and so, tell me, is it true?"

Don't miss tomorrow's great installment of Rudy's own story, "The Great Lover" and Natacha's while in Nice and then turn their faces southward toward "The Shell's" own homeland. He tells his heart thrills, his secret loves, his innermost emotions. He pens a word picture that will make your heart beat the faster. Don't miss it.

TRAFFIC LAW CHANGES OFFERED IN COUNCIL

Two important measures in traffic regulations of the city were introduced to city council Monday afternoon as a result of the tragic death of Andrew Owen, 10-year-old school boy, who was run down by an automobile driven by Mrs. A. H. Turner last week.

One of the measures presages the licensing of all automobile drivers. A committee was appointed to investigate the advisability of such a course. Members of the committee are: Councilman John A. White, City Attorney James L. Mayson, Councilman Harry York, Representative Frank Hooper, Jr., and Oscar L. Hammond, of the Atlanta Motor club. If this committee reports favorably to council to require a license of automobile drivers this measure may be passed soon.

After a strong fight by Councilman Horace Russell, C. D. Knight and A. J. Orme it was decided to place a traffic light at Hunt street and Ponce de Leon avenue, the scene of the accidental death of the child. The fourth ward delegation, led by Councilman C. J. Vaughn and John A. White, fought the measure.

A compromise measure was introduced by Councilman J. Allen Couch that the light be placed at the street intersection, but that it be used only one hour before opening of the Ella Smilie school and one hour after the school closes. This will give protection to the children going to and from school and will not interfere greatly with the vehicular traffic, it was stated. An appropriation of $400 to install the light was made by council. A third proposed change in traffic rules suggested by the accident was to place traffic stop signals at the intersection of streets at all schools and white markers for pedestrian traffic at those points. The measure was referred to the traffic committee after Councilman Orme had declared that the finances of the city would not warrant such an expenditure at this

In The Interests Of Southeastern Development

A RECENT article in the Manufacturers Record, of Baltimore, commending The Citizens and Southern's statewide advertising campaign, says in part:

"The Citizens and Southern Bank has been doing some very intelligent work calculated to do great good to Georgia. In this it has set an example which might be followed to advantage by all the bankers of the south. This work consists of good, strong, clear-cut advertising in local papers showing the resources of Georgia and its industries."

"A banker is regarded as the exponent of the activities of his community. He can be a depressing, pessimistic influence or he can be an upbuilding, optimistic power. He can discourage industrial and business development or he can be a leader in carrying forward constructive forces. A bank ought to be the center of influences to radiate knowledge about a community's resources. If every banker in the south would recognize his responsibility to the direct upbuilding of the industrial interests of his community and his state, the progress of the south could be doubled over the rate at which it is now growing."

We greatly appreciate this word from an important national journal. And we wish to take this occasion to reassert our unlimited faith in the vast opportunities; natural wealth, able industrial management, sound citizenship and the brilliant future of Georgia and the Southeast.

COOLIDGE URGES AID FOR FLORIDA

Washington, September 20.—(AP)—A quick and whole-hearted response to the distress call of the storm-swept district of Florida came today from the nation's capital.

President Coolidge led the move for relief by formally asking the American people to contribute to a fund to aid those who had gone through an overwhelming disaster.

He promised such assistance as was within the means of the government and, following his lead, the members of the cabinet, whose departments were in a position to offer help for relief, placed their resources at the command of those in charge of rehabilitation work.

The Red Cross was active early, and the first response to the president's call was a contribution of $100,000 from the national headquarters of the organization. Whatever fund is donated, the organization said, will go into actual relief work and none will be used for administrative purposes.

CHICAGO INSPIRED BY SYMPATHY

Chicago, September 20.—(AP)—With ingenuity inspired by sympathy, Chicago today took a leading part in the relief of storm-stricken Florida.

A special train laden with doctors, nurses and medical and food supplies thundered toward the stricken region in command of Dr. Herman Bundesen, the city's health officer, while Chicago dipped into her purse for the hurricane relief fund and planned for the methodical assistance of relief units working in the stricken state.

The relief train left here at 1 o'clock this afternoon, carrying 25 physicians, 35 nurses, X-rays, drugs and supplies. It was equipped and made up by the Illinois Central railroad, the Pullman company, The Herald and Examiner, Cook county and the city of Chicago. Many private hospitals, firms and individuals helped to supply it.

The Pullman company placed all its facilities at the command of the governor of Florida and suggested that Pullman cars would be made available on demand, in needy communities and for the housing and treatment of disaster victims.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, from its national headquarters here, directed a $25,000 currency shipment from Philadelphia to Miami by airplane and promised more funds if they can be raised.

Swift and Company, packers, directed the turning over to the state of Florida of $1,000 worth of foodstuffs in storage at their Miami depot. The Red Cross announced plans for a campaign here for relief.

The Red Cross announced plans for relief funds, fixing the minimum at $500,000.

On his way to Florida is Colonel Hugh F. Miller of the Association of Commerce, director of relief work in the San Francisco earthquake.

PRESIDENT OF GERMANY OFFERS CONDOLENCE

Washington, September 20.—(AP)—The sympathy of the president of Germany and the German people for the Florida storm sufferers was expressed today by the charge d'affaires of the German embassy, who called at the state department.

BAND PLAYS IN STREET AS DEAD ARE SOUGHT

Hollywood, Fla., September 20.—(AP)—While rescue workers here Sunday and today were searching buildings for dead and injured, Caesar Lamonica's band, which has played daily in Hollywood throughout the summer, marched up and down the streets playing popular music.

POSTAL SERVICE RENDERING AID

Washington, September 20.—Postmaster General New today said he had directed that postal inspectors from nearby territory be sent into the storm-swept sections of Florida.

There would be no permanent damage to mail service which should be functioning satisfactorily again within two or three days, he said.

He took measures to have the post-office department aid in relief and rehabilitation.

All of the company's nurses were ordered to report to the Red Cross relief stations.

ODD FELLOWS COOPERATE WITH VICTIMS

Philadelphia, September 20.—(AP)—The Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at its opening session here today appropriated $5,000 for relief for members of the organization and their families in the devastated area of Florida.

More funds will be forthcoming, it was stated, if found necessary.

STORM REFUGEES ARRIVE IN ATLANTA

Warmed of the approaching storm, all Miami and the stricken area awaited its coming, knowing that it was to bring death and devastation.

These were horrible hours, after the first warnings were sent out, and frantic citizens sought the strongest shelter that was at hand.

First of the Miami injured to arrive in Atlanta was Jack Kontz, son of Judge E. C. Kontz, who received a fracture of the left arm as a result of the storm. He was met at the train by his father and friends and carried to a waiting automobile in which he was rushed to his home.

Thomas Elbridge, of Buckingham county, Virginia, who narrowly escaped injury in Miami during the hurricane, arrived on the second refugee train, to spend the winter here at Stone Henge, the S. H. Venable home, as the guest of Mrs. Frank Madison. He will attend Georgia Tech.

Mrs. M. E. Rockhill, of Coral Gables, passed through Atlanta en route to Columbus, Ohio. Her husband is still in the storm area and will follow her to Columbus later.

Frank Witt, of Hollywood, was one of the storm survivors passing through Atlanta Monday night, en route to Ocklawaha, Ga.

Scraming of Storm

The hurricane broke over Miami shortly after midnight Friday night and beat relentlessly against the defenseless city for 12 terrible hours, during which houses were reduced to crumbling masses; trees and poles were uprooted as if by the hands of an invisible giant; the air was filled with flying debris and everywhere was the crashing and splintering of glass and wooden structures and screaming of the storm.

Miami awaited death. The storm raged. Even the most substantial buildings shook upon their foundations, as the hurricane beat against them and the seas washed over the bulwarks, sweeping all before.

The dead were in the streets; under crumbling ruins—everywhere. And then came a deadly stillness. Miami gathered her dead and piled the bodies wherever there was room. Frantic mothers sought their babies; many children were picked up in all parts of the city, some of them dead, that had been borne on the merciless wings of the hurricane away from their ruined homes.

There was no food. No water. No way of communicating with the outside world—of asking aid of fellow loved ones that those who were spared were safe.

Then came soldiers to patrol the storm-swept streets, with orders to shoot to kill those who sought to plunder. And over all was this stillness, awaiting all before.

The old causeway is being used, despite the fact that it is damaged and partly washed away. Boats were washed up out of the bay, and a big tug was tossed out of the water onto the grounds of the Royal Palm hotel.

A Mr. Bragg, of Atlanta, also miraculously escaped when the house in which he was staying was blown away from over him.

Delivered from the jaws of death, the first survivors of the Miami disaster reached Atlanta Monday night, bringing with them graphic stories of devastation wrought by the West Indian hurricane that swept across south Florida. At upper left is Mrs. Joseph Lichenstein, of Hollywood, in the rolling chair, and her daughter, Hazel, who survived the ruins about their home. Upper right, left to right, is Mrs. C. W. Buice, of Atlanta; her daughter, Mrs. J. H. McAllister, whose husband was killed at Miami, and M. W. Buice. Mrs. McAllister, who had been visiting her mother in Atlanta, left Sunday with her mother for Miami, in ignorance of the death of her husband. Relatives succeeded in communicating with her at Jacksonville and she returned to Atlanta. Her husband was well known in Atlanta, and at one time was an employee of The Constitution's composing room. At lower left is Jack Kontz, son of Judge E. C. Kontz, of Atlanta, who suffered a fracture of the left arm in the hurricane. He was met at the train by his father and friends, who rushed him away before reporters could get the story of his injury from him. At lower right are three young women who were in the midst of the hurricane. Left to right they are Mary Cox, of Cookeville, Tenn.; Ella Manley, of Knoxville, and Helen Hawley, of Homestead, a junior at Oberlin college, near Cleveland, Ohio, who passed through Atlanta on the refugee train on her way to school. The fourth figure is a woman who anxiously awaited news of relatives in the storm area, a member of the little band that hovered about the train gates for hours until the trains arrived. The baby in the arms of the man has met many incoming trains with her mother, seeking news of her father, who has not been heard from since the storm.

ness, contrasted against the cowering of a few hours before.

Thousands were homeless. Men sought bread and water for their wives and children.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lichenstein, of Miami, among the first to leave the train, described scenes there during the height of the storm as the most frightful experience possible for human beings to see.

Coral Gables Suffers Little

Robert H. Reely, of Coral Gables, and his mother, Mrs. Lila E. Reely, said that pace suffered comparatively little damage. They placed the property loss in Coral Gables at $1,500,000 and said that three lives were lost. The roof of the Hotel Clarendon, at Coral Gables, where they stayed, was blown completely off.

Miss Mary Cox, of Cookeville, Tenn.,

maintained shortly after midnight Friday, she said.

"People waited in terror just as though they were condemned to death," Miss Hawley said. "The first terrible gale struck Homestead shortly after midnight and lasted for twelve hours. All through the storm people simply waited in terror with every expectation of being swept to death at any moment."

Miraculous Escape

Miss Manley and Miss Cox miraculously escaped death during the hurricane. They were visiting the home of Harold Leyshon, news editor of the Miami Herald, they said, and on the night the storm began were in an automobile at Hialeah. Before they knew it, they said, the wind was roaring about them. They drove for the safest spot that presented itself, while trees and telephones fell all around them.

Huge trees toppled over and were blown about as if they had been matches. Great sheets of water hurled through the air, they said, borne by the terrific wind.

"The race track buildings at Hialeah were wrecked and practically every home in the district was ruined. Water was standing on the streets of Miami, several feet deep in many places, long after the hurricane had passed over."

rifing ripping noise, we saw the roof of our home torn from its fastenings, and crashed to the street many yards away. Overhead the storm clouds, filled with flying debris, raced, while the roar of the gale was almost deafening.

Man From Wrecked Home

"Wrapped in blankets, we ran out of our house to that of a neighbor's, and there remained until the storm passed over."

Mr. Callaway told of a young man—a Mr. James—who was known to him, who was trapped by the hurricane on Miami Beach, who fought a battle for his life for many hours, while the storm raged and swept him into the rising waters of Biscayne bay.

Caught on the beach, his automobile stalled in several feet of water, James was out in the open when the worst blast of the hurricane swept across the beach. Fighting for his life against the 100-mile gale, James was swept against a palm tree, bruised and battered. Knowing that his life depended upon it, he gripped the palm tree with all his remaining strength.

Growing Fainter

For hours James held on. But, gradually, the horrible realization came over him that he was growing fainter, on the verge of having to give up to the beating of the storm. He finally succeeded in tearing his belt from around his waist and unding one of his arms to the palm tree. There he remained for hours—until the hull, which was followed by the worst attack of all.

In those few minutes of respite James made his way to an automobile which was marooned on the beach several feet of water. He pulled himself into the car just as the storm broke again. There he stayed for hours. He didn't know how long. He was so tired that he was little against the raging winds that he often dropped off to sleep as he huddled in the car and might have drowned if he had ever lapsed totally into unconsciousness. After the storm, James fought his way back to Miami, bruised and exhausted.

Saw Fifty Boats Sink

Mr. Callaway said that he saw many small craft washed high and dry upon the shore at Miami's water front. Palm trees were uprooted and he said, not a leaf of foliage was left on a tree within the area. All of the stately royal palms, for which the city is famous, were either torn up from their roots or were broken off at the tops.

Mrs. H. C. McCool, of Vedado Way, received at letter Monday by air mail from her daughter who passed the night of horror in the Everglades hotel at Miami. She was on the eleventh floor of the 19-story building. Every window on the storm side was shattered, and the huge structure rocked and trembled as it had been a child's toy—rocked and swayed so that many persons suffered from the same sickness that is caused by rolling.

From her window, according to the letter, she counted 50 boats as they sank in the bay. She saw many automobiles overturned and saw many people blown from the streets into the raging waters of Biscayne bay.

Arrivals Anxiously Questioned

Eagerly questioning arrivals from the storm-wrecked "magic city," Mrs. June Harrison Courtney, of 2040 Peachtree road, Mrs. M. H. Wolford, Lucy Watts and other Atlantans sought news of dear ones or some inkling of their fate as the train sharp curve.

Mrs. J. I. Pilcher was brought to a local hospital tonight. He is partially paralyzed from an injury of his back. Doctors said the extent of his injuries have not been determined.

Mrs. Pilcher and Dick Pilcher suffered slight cuts and bruises. Miss Rosa Lee Pilcher, also in the car, was unhurt. The car overturned at a sharp curve.

paused for a few minutes before continuing northward.

Mrs. Courtney sought news of M. W. Lamar, "whose wife and daughter were visiting here. Mrs. Courtney is Mrs. Lamar's mother. Mrs. Lucy Watts' son, Jack Watts, was in Miami during the storm and has not been heard from since. Mrs. Courtney is daughter, Miss Louise Wolford, society editor of the wrecked Miami Tribune, and has not been heard from since."

the rule of the age of consent which justified the death penalty. Unfortunately, the very nature of this evidence is such that it cannot be published. The record is open to the inspection of anyone interested. It is sufficient to record here that after an exhaustive study of the evidence no impartial mind can escape the conviction that the conclusion reached by the trial judge and jury was practically all that the trial jurors is justified if not demanded. Let there be no misconception of the import of their judgment, let it be expressly noted that the character of the prosecution is not questioned. It cannot be doubted that she told the truth. There can be no justification for the crime actually committed by the defendant. The circumstances of the case clearly indicate that he is of such immoral and criminal character as to demand that he be separated from society for the full term of his natural life. The only matter involved and the only question here determined is that under the physical facts and peculiar evidence disclosed there is no escape from real and substantial doubt that capital punishment is justified in this case. In accordance with the conviction confirming the conclusion of the judge, the prosecuting attorney, the jury and the physicians hereinbefore referred to.

Sentence Commuted.

"Ordered, that the sentence of death be and the same is hereby commuted to life imprisonment and the prison authorities are directed to receive the said Bruce Napier in the penitentiary of the state, there to serve the full term of his natural life. There is a mass of certificates and statements indicating that the defendant is defective in mind. This element has little appeal as it does not measure up to the standard fixed by law as so defective that he does not know the difference between right and wrong."

FLORIDA MAN HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Macon, Ga., September 20.—(AP)—J. I. Pilcher, 52 of Graceville, Florida, was seriously injured and his wife and brother, Dick Pilcher, were slightly hurt, when a touring car overturned four miles of Marshallville, this afternoon.

J. I. Pilcher was brought to a local hospital tonight. He is partially paralyzed from an injury of his back. Doctors said the extent of his injuries have not been determined.

Mrs. Pilcher and Dick Pilcher suffered slight cuts and bruises. Miss Rosa Lee Pilcher, also in the car, was unhurt. The car overturned at a sharp curve.

HOLDER DECLARES BONDS IS ISSUE

Reiterating charges that bonds is the chief issue in the gubernatorial race, John N. Holder, Monday gave out a lengthy statement in connection with his campaign against Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce.

The statement follows:
"Dr. Hardman is still dodging the real issue in the campaign for the governorship. He declares in his statement issued from Commerce on Saturday that bonds is not the issue. The political machine, headed by the governor of Georgia, aided and abetted by W. T. Anderson and the Atlanta Telegraph, and Julian Harris and the Columbus Enquirer Sun, apparently has him tongue-tied. He is voluble enough about his own accomplishments, and silent as a mouse about the gravest economic issue which has faced the people of Georgia for two decades.

"The truth of the matter is that the Doctor is for bonds, and every discriminating person in Georgia knows it. If he did not favor the issue of hundreds of millions of dollars of bonds he would come out in a manly, straightforward way and say so. If he were not in the hands of the machine, he would not have the active support of all the leading political advocates and all the leading political newspapers.

"Only One Machine."
"The Doctor may flatter himself that he can side-step this grave issue, but he will find that he is mistaken. He does not know the issue and time in his Sunday statement to machine politics and efficiency in state government. There is only one political machine in Georgia, and that is the machine of Governor Clifford Walker, with its horde of editors, liquidating agents and attorneys, in the horde of employees in the fish and game department, in the revenue department, in the tax department; in fact, in every department of the state government, all of whom are actively supporting Dr. Hardman and hoping, and waiting for the political plums which will come to them if the people select him as the democratic standard bearer.

"My candidacy alone stands between the people of Georgia and the most powerful and ruthless machine that Georgia has ever known. If they defeat me they will entrench themselves in power for another decade, controlling the partitioning of the state, the machinery of the democratic party, the delegates to its national convention, and place Georgia permanently in alignment with the reactionary and un-American forces of the democratic politicians of the eastern centers of wealth and population.

"Dr. Hardman says that the statement that he is to appoint Governor Clifford Walker chairman of the highway board is 'absurd.' Many people would, indeed, regard it as 'absurd' to have as the chairman of the highway department, the man who cost the taxpayers of Georgia a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in attempting to run a bond issue. 'Own their throats in an extra session of the legislature; the man who lives and dreams of tremendous expenditures of the people's tax money; the man who was elected to office on a platform opposing bonds and an income tax and then called an extra session and tried to have both put on the people. But why is the doctor not sincere and straightforward; why does he not say 'if I am nominated and elected governor of Georgia, I promise the people of Georgia that I will not appoint Clifford Walker chairman of the highway department?'"

Reiterates Charge
"It is true that the charge made by me that Dr. Hardman had agreed to appoint Governor Clifford Walker chairman of the highway board has jolted and startled the state. It is true that it has shaken the confidence of many of those who thought well of the doctor, and it is also true that no sooner had the type hit the presses than the frantic editor of The Macon Telegraph sent his chief editorial writer to Atlanta for a special conference with the governor. This is the plan that W. T. Anderson has been expecting. For is he not the real boss in this campaign and has he not been the chief slanderer? Has he not sent this selfsame editorial writer to Commerce to paint a glowing picture of the doctor and his accomplishments? The truth of the matter is that the doctor is dodging the question of the appointment of Governor Clifford Walker as chairman of the highway board, just as he dodged the statement that I made that he offered to 'trade' with me and make me chairman of the highway board if I would get out of the way of his august person and pocketbook and let him have the governorship. He characterized this also as 'absurd.' He evaded that charge until confirmatory evidence was given by his friend and supporter and fellow townsman, John Shannon, whose word will be believed by every man and woman in Georgia who knows him.

"I might say, for the benefit of the doctor, that the reverse of the glowing picture which has been painted of him and his accomplishments in Commerce will be promptly shown to the public. The time is past when Dr. Hardman is going to be permitted to masquerade longer as a humanitarian millionaire. I propose to paint him in his true colors.

"In the meantime I ask Dr. Hardman, in all sincerity and in behalf of the people of Georgia, to state his position on the question of bonds and to deny emphatically that he has traded with local Atlanta politicians and agreed to appoint Gov. Clifford Walker chairman of the highway board. (Signed) "JOHN N. HOLDER."

Rates on Steel, Iron
Will Be Taken Up

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR WILLIAM B. SWINT

Funeral services for William Blake Swint, of 915 Spring street, who died Sunday night at a private sanitarium, were held Monday afternoon from the St. Mark's Methodist church. The Rev. J. B. Mitchell officiated and interment was in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Swint, who at the time of his death was secretary and manager of the Bryan Electric company, was a popular church worker in Atlanta and well known in business circles.

Members of Judge Warner Hill's Bible class of the St. Mark's church formed an honorary escort. Pallbearers were James F. Bryant, Dr. J. Ross Tucker, C. W. Stoddard, Carroll B. McGaughey, Dr. B. T. Beasley, John G. Burkhardt, Jr., Charles F. Hoke and Paul D. O'Kelly.

Besides his wife, Mr. Swint is survived by two children, William Blake, Jr., and Elsie Swint; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Swint, of Fredonia and Standing Rock, Ala., and seven brothers, E. M., J. R., H. T., S. H., O. L., A. L., and J. S. Swint. Former Chief of Police E. L. Jett, is the father-in-law of the deceased man.

RAINS AND WINDS
DUE HERE TODAY
AS STORM RESULT

A day of rain and brisk winds will be Atlanta's taste today of the tropical storm that wrought havoc along the Florida coast regions, according to the forecasts by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the local weather bureau.

The cloudy weather and rain Monday and today is due to disturbed conditions of the atmosphere caused by the gulf coast hurricane, the weatherman stated.

"Rains of long duration and brisk breezes for north Georgia will be the worst 'local result of the storm,' it was reported at the weather bureau Monday.

No further drop in temperatures was in sight for today, the weatherman said, in recording Monday's temperature range, for which 68 degrees was low and 74 degrees high.

Five Postal Men Sent to Miami To Aid Service

Five United States mail inspectors were sent to Miami from the Atlanta division Monday to aid in reorganizing the crippled mail service there, which was resumed Monday under difficulties, according to a telegram from Postmaster O. W. Pittman, to the Atlanta postoffice.

The message from Postmaster Pittman said:
"Resuming delivery of mail on hand and will be able to handle both incoming and outgoing mail. Clerks working under difficulties. Main building not seriously damaged. Shed at rear swept away. Station B wrecked by collapse of wall."

Other Florida cities near Miami reporting that much damage had been done to postoffice buildings were Coral Gables, Hollywood, Hialeah, Ojus and Miami Shores.

ALDERMEN DELAY
COUNCIL ACTION
RAISING SALARIES

Raises totaling approximately $24,500 annually in the city construction department were held up Monday in the aldermanic board after passing council. The increase had been affected about 70 employees of the department and would have allowed each a raise of about one dollar a day.

This is estimated to be one-third of the total number of employees of the department. The paper was offered by the streets committee of city council with a favorable recommendation. The aldermanic body voted to hold the paper in order to "look into the merit of the increases."

All other papers passed by council were passed by the board.

ATLANTA FIDDLER WINS TOP HONORS

Earl Johnson, of Atlanta, holds the southern fiddling championship of 1926, having defeated 50 rivals in the first open fiddling contest ever held in the Atlanta auditorium.

W. M. Jackson, of Huntsville, Ala., won second prize, and R. H. Stephens, of Birmingham, scored third. This was the first championship contest ever held in which fiddlers from other states than Georgia entered the competition, it was said. There were fiddlers from the Carolinas, Tennessee, Florida and Alabama besides nearly 100 Georgians.

The largest audiences which ever attended a fiddlers' convention in Atlanta filled the auditorium for two nights, more than 4,000 persons attending Saturday night, records showed.

VIRGINIA PASTOR FORMALLY CALLED TO LOCAL CHURCH

The Rev. W. E. Davis, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Staunton, Va., Monday was mailed a formal call to the Atlanta pulpit of the Central Presbyterian church, left vacant when the Rev. Ben H. Lacy resigned to accept the presidency of the Presbyterian Theological school at Richmond, Va., according to W. Cole, member of the local church.

Mr. Davis, who is a graduate of Columbia Theological seminary, recently visited Atlanta and was favorably impressed with the opportunity for church work offered here. Mr. Cole said, in expressing the belief that the pastor would accept the call, Mr. Davis has given out no statement with regard to coming to Atlanta.

Robinson Circus Offers Financial Help To Florida

One of the first offers of aid for Florida storm sufferers came early Monday when a wire was sent to Governor John Martin, of the stricken state, by John Robinson's Circus, which shows in Atlanta Monday and Tuesday.

The wire offered sympathy and condolences to the residents of Florida and declared the willingness of the management of the circus to do anything in its power to assist in rehabilitation of the storm-swept area and supplemented this with an offer "if not objectionable" of a check of $1,000 to be forwarded immediately.

Stating that the circus during October is scheduled to show in a number of Florida towns not in the path of the storm, the management extended also the offer of five per cent of its receipts in all cities where it will show in Florida. The telegram follows:

"John Robinson's Circus extends its sympathy and condolences to the residents of your commonwealth who have suffered from the storm. If in our small way we can aid, do not hesitate to call upon us. Our prospective route for late October includes Florida cities not in the storm area. We think it our duty and also consistent to return favors of the past, by aiding the relief fund through a donation of five per cent of the receipts of our big show in all the cities we make in your state. If not objectionable to you we can immediately forward a check for one thousand dollars towards the relief fund. Please wire us collect Atlanta either Monday or Tuesday your expressions.

"John Robinson's Circus."

MINISTERS DEPLORE FLORIDA DISASTER

Resolutions expressing "profound sympathy for sufferers in the storm disaster which has befallen the people of Florida and heartily commending any relief measure that may be proposed by Atlantans," were unanimously adopted Monday by the Presbyterian Ministers' association of Atlanta. The resolutions were signed by T. P. Burgess, secretary and were offered by Dr. J. Sprole Lyons.

TO WIDEN STREETS IN AREA AFFECTED
BY NEW VIADUCTS

Resolutions providing for the widening of Hunter, Wall, Decatur, Ivy and Pryor streets and Central avenue from 40 to 48 feet were passed by city council Monday.

The extra four feet on each side of the streets will be taken from sidewalk areas of 10 feet. The widening of the streets only applies to these sections affected by the proposed Central avenue and Pryor street viaducts.

ANXIETY FELT FOR GEORGIANS
NOW IN MOBILE

Anxiety for the safety of Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner and James H. Dozier, state tax commissioner, as expressed by capital officials Monday when they read that Mobile, Ala., was visited by a hurricane a few hours after the scheduled arrival in that city of the two Georgia officials.

Mr. Twitty and Mr. Dozier were due to arrive in Mobile Sunday night. No word had been received from either of them up to Monday night.

TRY A PATTERN FLOOR FOR YOUR CHEERLESS ROOM

Says interior architect and editor,
R. W. Sexton

"What is the matter with this entrance hall?" a discouraged home-planner recently asked me. She had planned a hall of Spanish character. She had planned well, too—rough-textured walls, leaded glass windows, appropriate furniture.

Yet there was something the matter with that room. It lacked unity. And the perplexed owner appealed to me.

The trouble lay underfoot
The furnishings were certainly in good taste. The wall was quite suitable, too. But the floor—ah, there lay the trouble! It had no relation to the room—spirit this woman was trying to secure.

My advice was to install a linoleum floor of color and design. I knew just the pattern she needed to make this room was an Embossed Handcraft Tile Inlaid—a red quarry tile design patterned in natural relief.

This floor has a texture quite suitable to rough-textured walls. It has the color and pattern that make any room bright and cheerful. And, of course, being cork linoleum, it is warm and comfortable underfoot.

LANCASTER, PA. — From every state in the Union home-planners have written to Hazel Dell Brown to ask her help in redecorating their rooms. They invariably find her plans simple, helpful, and successful.

Now Mrs. Brown has written a short, twenty-four-page book describing her unique method of interior decorating with the use of linoleum floors.

She has illustrated this new book with color paintings of model interiors, photographs of homes little and homes large. Finally, she has devoted some six pages to color reproductions of linoleum patterns.

The title of her book is "The Attractive Home—How to Plan Its Decoration." She will be glad to send you a copy. Address: Armstrong Cork Company, Linoleum Division, Lancaster, Pa.

Different from any floor you know. Soft, comfortable linoleum tiles that are actually raised above the surface of the goods.

A PRETTY, NEW, inexpensive floor is now being shown at local home-furnishing stores. It is called Armstrong's Embossed Handcraft Tile Inlaid.

Decorators say it is a revelation in floor design. "Why, you have achieved 'texture'!" they say. By "texture" they mean that instead of the usual smooth surface, this linoleum has the artistic character of hand-set tiles. The mortar lines framing these tiles are pressed below the surface, thus:

The tiles themselves are of varying but harmonious shades ingeniously combined in pleasing color combinations. There is no appearance of pattern repeat. In some patterns quaint, emblematic figures have been decoratively spotted.

Every inch of this pattern is inlaid. It is Armstrong's latest contribution to prettier floors. Offered in eleven patterns, from

The floor Mr. R. W. Sexton describes—embossed linoleum in which the tiles stand slightly upraised

Another selected group of NEW inlaid patterns

In addition, Armstrong offers a new group of inlaid patterns. From hundreds considered, these have been chosen for their beauty of color, their fine design, their harmony with other furnishings. These patterns include block motifs, handcraft designs, and neat close figures; also a new kind of Marbleized linoleum. ## HUSBAND DID THE WASHING

His Wife Confined to Her Bed by Ill Health

Because of his wife's frequent ill health, Mr. J. F. Gage was obliged to do the washing and cooking for the family.

One day when Mrs. Gage was confined to her bed, he brought her the news paper to read. Among the advertisements he noticed a letter from a sick woman telling of the help she had received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I'll try it," she decided.

Her husband brought home a bottle and only a few days after she had begun to take it she felt well enough to be up around the house. Gradually her general health improved until she is now able to do her own work.

In a letter which Mrs. Gage recently wrote, she said, "I have taken twelve bottles and feel like a new woman." She also told many women about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of her friends is now taking it. Her address is Mrs. J. F. Gage, Route 5, Brownwood, Texas.

daughter of General Ambrose Ransom Wright, of Georgia. She is an artist and her work has been on exhibition at the Anderson galleries. The bridegroom was for years in consular service in London, but recently has been associated with his uncle, J. Edwin R. Carpenter, architect. She is a niece of Miss Annie Wright, of Augusta, and Ransom Wright, of Atlanta. As a little girl she resided in this city with her parents. Bishop Stires, the groom's father, was rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Augusta during the first years of his ministerial work, and married Miss Sarah Hardwick, of Augusta. The bride's mother was Miss Ella Wright, of Augusta, a belle and beauty, and her father, the late Howard Wilcox, was a man who was loved by all who knew him.

Mr. and Mrs. Stires sail Monday on the Majestic and after a brief wedding trip will go to Paris, where both will for a year devote themselves to study at the Beaux Arts. Later they will travel for a year, going to Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Germany. On their return to this country two years hence they will live in New York.

Holst-Dixon Engagement Of Interest in Atlanta.

The following announcement was taken from the Savannah Morning News:

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre N. Holst announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Wayne, to Merritt W. Dixon, Jr. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Holst attended school at Stuart Hill in Staunton, Va., and since her debut two years ago has been one of the most admired and popular young girls in society. Her mother was Miss Clifford Munnerly before her marriage, and she is the granddaughter of the late James Munnerly and Mrs. Munnerly. Her father is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christian Holst.

Mr. Dixon is the son of Mrs. Dixon and the late James Dixon. After attending school at Woodberry Forest and the Georgia School of Technology he served overseas with the 82nd division in the 307th regiment of engineers. He is the head of the Dixon Contracting company, and is one of the most prominent business men in the city.

For One Week

follow this simple rule in skin care—note the improvement

By NORMA TALMADGE

Most of the naturally clear complexions you see today are due to it... what to do

THERE are both proved ways and unproved ways in skin care. The wise woman chooses the proved way. A good complexion is too priceless for experiment.

The simple rule below is one any girl or woman owes herself to try. More beautiful complexions are credited to it than to any other method known. Its results are seen on every side.

Follow it if only for one week. It is nature's proof way to skin clearness and to Youth safeguarded. Leading skin specialists urge it widely—correct skin cleansing with the soothing olive and palm lather of Palmolive, in this way:

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely—naturally colorful and clear.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skin proves its effectiveness beyond doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10c the cake—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Woman's Division Of Chamber Hears Air Mail Official

J. Mitchell, traffic manager of Florida Airways corporation was principal speaker at noon Monday meeting of the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce, the chamber building.

Mr. Mitchell expressed his regret that "Miss Atlanta," the first airplane flying air mail into Atlanta, could be in the city last Sunday as previously announced, but declared that plane represented Atlanta in work in the storm-stricken Florida.

During his experience in aviation I have never seen a city so enthusiastic and so willing to cooperate as Atlanta. The Florida Airways hoping that the corporation shall be a great part in making Atlanta center of commercial aviation," declared.

P. Dieter, head of the smoke-ventilation league urged the cooperation of the division in the abatement of smoke nuisance in Atlanta. W. Wilkes, speaking in behalf of the chamber extended to the division the privilege of attending a class accounting conducted by the J. Y. The only requisites for attending must be members of division, he said.

The full membership drive was inaugurated at the meeting. The following were named as directors of the organization: Miss Lois Manning, chairman of the membership committee; Mrs. R. S. Addis and Miss Kate Mueschmidt, section leaders. The drive will continue through the third day in October. The initial dance of the division will be held at 7 o'clock tonight, in the chamber building, it was announced. Mrs. N. E. Edwards, soprano, rendered a solo entitled, "My Lady's Song," and "Little Grey Home in West."

Epic Story of News Gathering MEN AND WOMEN OF PRESS WORKING UNCEASINGLY Being Made In Florida Storm

Sunday morning found Miami and her stricken sister cities in the storm area lying helpless, cut off from the outside world and the aid that was so sorely needed. A merciless West Indian hurricane, that roared out of the southeast a few hours before, had left in its wake a horrible trail of death and disaster.

A nation anxiously awaited the first story of the storm. And while Atlantans made frantic efforts to learn something of the fates of their loved ones and friends, men were fighting their way through the stricken area, to bring the message that would be flashed to every city in the United States and that would go around the world.

Sam Small, of The Constitution's editorial department, who has covered many great world events for The Constitution, left for the scene of tragedy Sunday. Mr. Small went to Jacksonville by train, then boarding an airplane which took him on down into Miami.

Seeking All Information.

The Constitution sent Mr. Small in order that its readers might have every bit of available information. He is a forceful writer and his stories, the first of which appears in this issue of The Constitution, will be vivid word pictures of the disaster.

Many of the old readers of The Constitution will remember Mr. Small's accounts of the Charleston earthquake and of other memorable disasters, which he "covered" for this paper.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock Sunday a message flashed over the Florida wire into the Associated Press headquarters. Men, who had been at their posts for hours, waited, waiting for this first message, translated the crazy chattering of their telegraph instruments and transcribed the awful story as it poured in spasmodic flashes.

First News in Atlanta.

Twenty minutes later an army of reporters, gathered from the streets, bearing the first news of the disaster to reach Atlanta.

For hours members of every staff on the Constitution had awaited the call that they knew was coming. In miraculously short time, a large news party followed by ten at Mrs. Pickett's in her honor. Eight guests were invited.

Entries for Woman's Work At Fair Closes Sept. 27.

All entries for prizes in the woman's work department of the Southern Exposition fair will be accepted until 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, September 27, it was announced Monday by Oscar Mills, vice president and general manager.

While the woman's work department, with $2,500 posted in premium for the best samples of domestic art produced in America, is receiving the same proportionately large number of entries as all other departments, space in it is practically unlimited and all entries received during the next week will be displayed and judged for prizes," said Mr. Mills.

A few club booths and individual exhibit booths are still open and will be assigned without charge to individuals or organizations which the management of the department decides are capable of filling them to best advantage. Club booths are eight feet deep by 15 feet wide, individual booths are eight feet deep by eight feet wide. Seven prizes ranging from $30 to $100 will be awarded in the club booth division and seven prizes ranging from $20 to $75 will be awarded in the individual booth division.

Individual prizes will be awarded in basketry, bead work, textiles, knitting, crocheting, handkerchief decorating, women's hand-made clothing, baby's hand-made clothing, bags, sofa pillows, rugs and practically all other articles made by women for use in the home. All articles in the arts and crafts class must be delivered to the office of the Southeastern fair, at Lakewood park, not later than 6 o'clock next Monday evening, September 27.

Pies, cakes, bread, candies and other perishable exhibits must be entered by card not later than that date but the articles themselves are not to be delivered until 1 o'clock Tuesday, October 5, the hour that judging will begin.

Mr. and Mrs. Coppedge Give Lovely Dinner.

A delightful social affair of Monday evening was the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coppedge at their home in the Peachtree Court apart in its compliment to two California visitors, Dr. Marshall Williamson and his daughter, Miss Lou Williamson, of San Francisco.

Miss Williamson, returning Friday from Europe, where she has spent the past several months, will meet in New York by her father and en route to their home are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Coppedge.

Covers were placed for 20 guests.

Six Persons Are Drowned At Lakeport

Selbring, Fla., September 20.—(P)—Six persons were drowned, one missing and four were injured at Lakeport, a village of 150 people on the northwest shore of Lake Okechobee, according to reports received here tonight by the Selbring American. The reports were brought by a party of seven Tampa boat scouts who fought their way through wilderness, trail and swamp to the village.

The boys, who started into the wilderness after the hurricane had whipped its way across the Florida peninsula, reported that they had rescued George Beck, his wife and sister-in-law and three of his sister's children. They said that Beck said his mother, his sister, two of his sister's children and two persons he could not identify had drowned.

Beck told the boys that at least 100 Lakeport people were stranded without food or water on a haystack where they sought refuge in the storm.

'Seventh Heaven' Thrills Big First Night Audience

Unheralded, unsung and unknown to an Atlanta audience, a new star Monday night at the Forsyth theater when Edith Spears, newest Forsyth player, played her heart out in the premiere of "Seventh Heaven" play but Braving the chill of an unresponsive audience as she stepped on to the stage after only two rehearsals in the leading role, left vacant Saturday night when Mildred Florence was carried to a local hospital with a severe attack of typhoid fever, Miss Spears plunged into the part and won an audience that knew and loved Miss Florence, waited and waited and wondered, expecting her entrance momentarily.

But Miss Florence was delirious in the hospital and the care of two physicians. And it was a typical Miss Florence role that Miss Spears played, as Diane, an excellent character of slum life in Paris.

But with Miss Florence gravely ill, the part was played by another actress who is certain to carve her name deeply into the hearts of theatergoers of this city before many moons.

At Short Notice.

Miss Spears arrived late Saturday night for the season play in which when physicians stated that Miss Florence would not be able to work for some time, the new arrival was given the lines of the leading woman and in 48 hours' time, in which the director drilled and drilled and drilled her, she stepped onto the stage with a confidence that bespoke great courage, exceptional ability and the heart of the actress—to carry on with a smile at all hazards.

James Good, the leading man, as Chico, in a play that fairly reeks with courage, human nature and at every turn thrills one with mingled emotions, played opposite her. Diane, with almost super ability, his role is the heaviest he has had in Atlanta and a terrific strain as everyone saw the show went away realizing. But he put his all into it and that all raised him to new levels in Atlanta, brought him new laurels, new fame and cemented forever his hold upon the hearts of Atlantans.

Handicapped by playing opposite a new leading woman with whom he had never played before, Coots not only played above himself, in a way, but his remarkable work inspired others to greater efforts.

Great Character Roles.

Gus Forbes, as Boul, played one of his greatest roles. It was like the work of Gus when he was here before—his soul, his all—into the part. His work Monday night will live a long time in the hearts of that audience.

Jay Mulvey, rollicking comedian, who has ensconced himself into a fine place in Atlanta show circles, was a jolly old priest who loved good jokes, held to his faith and saw it triumph in the end. Others whose work was all that could be desired of the stage, include Fred Brigham, Eugene Du Bois, Miriam Seymour Hicks, Alan Devitt, (during the desert, highest praise) Frank Milam and others.

"Seventh Heaven," generally conceded to be the "perfect play," was witnessed by a huge audience. It has a terrific wallop that goes to the spot. It impresses one from the first and throughout hangs tenaciously to the heart strings—with bright spots here and there to break its grip for a moment.

From the moment Director Webster stepped into the close of the first act why Miss Florence was missing, one could almost feel the sorrow of those who have learned to love her. She will be back soon, physicians stated, and in the meantime Miss Spears, Mr. Coots and others may be relied upon to carry the show. But Miss Florence is absent—it is apparent.

3-Year-Old Girl Has Thrill Of Her Life At First Circus

BY CHRISTINE T. JONES.

I saw my first circus Monday. I am just a little girl, three years old, and it was the most wonderful thing in the world. I was just a wee bit scared at the lions, an' tigers, an' bears an', at first, at the elephants. But I remembered Orphan Annie on the funny page and her friend Peewee and then wasn't scared any more. My daddy, who took me, asked me what I liked best, after we came out, and I said the monkeys. They were so cute. I want my daddy to buy me one, but he said the circus people couldn't sell any. I fell in love with them in their round cage and the way they swung round that turn-table. And then they rode ponies and all kinds of things afterwards and I wanted one worse than ever.

It is awful exciting to see your first circus. You see, you never know what is going to come next. First off the big old band starts boom-booming away, and then a whole lot of pretty ladies and men come out riding elephants and camels and the most lovely horses you ever dreamed. And there were a lot of wild men dressed in skins and beating tin things like drums. And there was the sweetest little girl who came out in the middle ring and went to sleep and dreamed a splendid dream. You see, the show was her dream. I would like to be Mr. Sin, so pretty and had on the loveliest dress. And lots of beautiful fairies came out and danced round while she slept. Then they all sang. My daddy said it was the first time he had heard grand opera at a circus. I guess it's kind of nice to get both at the same time.

Performing Animals.

Then there were performing lions and tigers and bears in a big cage in the middle of the big tent. It was scary, sometimes, and one time a lady had to shoot her gun to stop a mad old lion from eating her. She poked a chair at the lion and that stopped him, too. Another lady rolled all around with a tiger in her arms. My daddy said they were wrestling.

I think Mr. John Robinson, who owns the circus, is the best man there is to bring such a good thing for children to see. I want to go again today and maybe my daddy will take me. He says they are going to do it all over again today, anyway, and I don't see why I can't go again, just once.

I saw lots of lovely ladies walking on wires and flying up in the air on big high swings. And there were men who jumped and turned summersets all round the track. And the loveliest horses that could dance and stand on their hind legs just like folks. I heard people near me saying they were the best looking lot of horses they ever saw, and I suppose that's right.

Then the horses jumped over a high fence, and ran races round and round, and there were racing dogs.

Plenty of Clowns.

And one thing I most forgot. The clowns. All through the show there were funny men dressed up weird crazy, with white faces and big feet and things, and they did the funniest things right in front of me. I laughed more than I ever did before.

Every daddy and mummy in Atlanta ought to take their children to the circus and they have a good chance this time, because it is here today, too. This afternoon and tonight. You get on a car that goes on Highland avenue and when you see all the big tents, get off, and there you are.

I am very glad that Mr. John Robinson brought his circus people here and when I grow up I'm going to ride a pretty horse in a circus and have a monkey for a pet.

TETANUS ANTITOXIN PLANE IS WRECKED

(By Leased Wire to the Constitution and the Chicago Tribune.)

Jacksonville, Fla., September 20.—The army airplane carrying 400,000 units of tetanus antitoxin to prevent a spread of disease in storm-devastated lower Florida was wrecked on the outskirts of Jacksonville this afternoon. The propeller of the ship was fouled when Lieutenant Clayton Bassell landed for fuel near Camp Johnston. It will be impossible to proceed until he gets another propeller or a new propeller from either Tampa or Atlanta, Lieutenant Bassell stated.

Frantic appeals were sent to those

RECORDER HOLLOWAY HONORED AT DINNER

Murphy M. Holloway, city recorder of the second division, was the chief speaker at a dinner tendered him by 20 friends, at the Peacock cafe Monday night. Dr. G. W. Biggers presided, and toastmaster and introduced the speakers.

Tribute to his record as recorder as paid to Mr. Holloway by M. H. Ash, who praised the firm stand taken by the recorder in enforcing the law against reckless driving and against persons found guilty of driving automobiles while intoxicated.

Several other prominent speakers raised the record made by Judge Holloway. The meeting closed after an address by the guest of honor.

FOR INFLAMED BREATHING TUBES

Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes in the Next Attack

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing. The first symptoms of catarrh of the ear are ringing or buzzing sensations and a feeling of fullness in the ear. A neglected cold, or an unhealed cold, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows, catarrh affects the ears, nose, throat, lungs, and frequently terminates the general health.

The secret of the successful treatment of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medical herbs (containing tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with any other remedy. It dissolves mucus, kills bacteria, and soothes inflamed tissues. This remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by adults and children.

You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant beneficial effects. (adv.)

No Telegraphic Telegrams Tell Wires to Miami Havoc Wrought Open on Monday By Mighty Storm

Direct telegraphic communication with Miami, Fort Lauderdale and other cities devastated by the Florida hurricane had not been reestablished last Monday night, according to Western Union officials. Two lines which were operating into the stricken city by Tuesday night, officials said, however, Atlanta Western Union operators worked West Palm Beach Monday, and it was from that city and other towns outside of the wrecked area that delayed messages from Miami were being sent to the outside world.

Linenmen of the Western Union were at Delray, about 40 miles from Miami Monday night, it was said. In the meantime, messages received in Atlanta and other cities by relatives of persons in the storm area were carried from Miami to the nearest working telegraph station by automobile and other means.

Wires to Mobile, Pensacola and other cities on the L. & N. line from Montgomery, Ala., to Gulfport, Miss., went dead Monday, and all efforts of Atlanta operators to "raise" these points were fruitless. With the storm striking into the Gulf shore line near Mobile and Pensacola, practically all wires in that section went down. It was reported.

Some of the storm area business is being handled over a direct cable connection from Miami Beach to New York via Key West, W. K. Phillips, Western Union superintendent, said Monday night. All of the Miami business to this section is being handled by motorcycle and automobile messengers to West Palm Beach, he said.

HOMES IN STORM, ATLANTANS LOSE TELEGRAMS STATE

An appeal for clothing, bedding and other necessities for the victims of the hurricane was issued by the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross, Junior and senior departments, immediately after news was received here.

The Atlanta chapter is cooperating with the national organization in the relief work and Monday morning when Atlanta officials opened many persons who have friends in the storm-stricken state were clamoring for help to be sent through the Red Cross. Numerous others have answered the appeals and are bringing supplies and funds for the work.

Shipping by the Atlanta Red Cross and every charity inclined person in Atlanta has been urged to send whatever they can from their own households or any contribution of money to the Red Cross office, 282½ Peachtree street.

Safety Zones For Dollars

Selling "Bankers Shares." Nothing is more important in the safe investing of money than to know who and what the person or firm is that offers to sell securities. A reputable security dealer will not sell worthless, German papermark bonds or any questionable security. Nor will he demand an exorbitant price, as has been done recently by means of a slick device called "bankers shares" in the stock of a very excellent motor corporation.

The trick of selling "bankers shares" in stock of Ford Motor company of Canada, by which the buyer pays at the rate of $1,000 for stock that is worth only $500, has been exposed repeatedly by financial editors, but judging from inquiries the writer has received recently from Nebraska, Mississippi and Washington, it is still being worked successfully throughout a large part of the United States. It is reported that the writer is working apparently needs repeating again and because it illustrates the importance of knowing the character of those with whom you deal.

Anyone can buy Ford of Canada stock on the New York Curb market. Some persons bought the stock, deposited it in trust and issued 100 "bankers shares" against each share of Ford of Canada stock deposited. Ford of Canada stock fluctuates on the market. It has been above $500 a share and below $500 in the last year. For illustrative purposes, suppose the stock is selling on the open market for $500 a share. At that time, 100 of the "bankers shares" represent a share of Ford of Canada stock worth $500 and one "bankers share" would represent a 1/100 part interest in a $500 stock, which would be $5. These "bankers shares" are being peddled at $10, which means that the sellers are getting $1,000 for each Ford of Canada share they have issued "bankers shares" against.

If a stranger says to John Smith, "give me $1,000 for this Ford stock," and Smith says $1,000 for a car he could have bought several hundred dollars cheaper of a regular dealer, it would be quite similar to buying these "bankers shares" at $10 apiece. Nothing, apparently, is misrepresented. Anyone might do the same thing, if he were built that way, and it is difficult to see how that splendid Canadian organization could prevent John Smith from paying $1,000 for a car or for stock that he could buy much cheaper by going to a regular recognized dealer in cars or in securities.

QUOTATIONS ON COTTON, GRAIN, LIVE STOCK

EASTERN BUYING
ADVANCES WHEAT

Chicago, September 20.—(AP)—Eastern buying coupled with a forecast of wheat weather in Canada gave much strength at times today to wheat values here. Closing quotations, though, on wheat were unsettled at only 1-8 to 3-8 cent advance. Corn finished 1-

2 to 1-4 cent down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 cent down, and provisions varying from 100-1/2 to 1-1/2 cent to a rise of 10c.

Gossip that a noted eastern speculator was back of the buying in the wheat market received considerable attention, and so, too, did talk which was current that political considerations were involved in the buying. On the other hand, there was evidence of persistent selling pressure from the northwest, apparently the result of the increasing movement of new crop wheat.

Prospects of unrelenting moisture in Canada were a factor in lifting wheat values after early decline that was associated with reports saying Canadian harvest conditions were favorable, predictions were being made that

Canadian farmers would market between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels of wheat within the next two weeks. The outlook, however, for such heavy marketing was altered later by the forecast of rain in Canada.

Likelihood of enlarged receipts of corn and oats, however, of frost, too, had also a similar influence.

In the provision market, profit taking sales largely counteracted upturns due to strength of hog values and of cotton.

North Africa
sunlit...exotic...oriental

Where the smart world winters...
Only ten days from Atlanta

SMOLDERING torches... wild strains of music... the sultry lifting of heavy scents from brazen burners! It is the witchery of the Orient woven into a tapestry of stars hung to the horizon. Scenes of unbelievable beauty... they lure the imagination to a North Africa made comfortable by 31 famous Transatlantic hotels, luxurious motor cars and excellent macadam roadways.

De Luxe fifty-seven day itinerary, including Mediterranean trip, private automobile and all hotel expenses... $1450. Or shorter trips; including a thirteen day itinerary for $120.

This Mohammedan Paradise is reached by "the longest gangplank in the world." The Paris or France, de Luxe French Liners, will take you to Plymouth, England... then Havre. The One-Class Cabin Liners go direct to Havre, the port of Paris. No transferring to tenders. Down the gangplank to the waiting train and Paris in three hours. Overnight, the Riviera. And a day across the Mediterranean to North Africa.

END TO BATTLE FOR COURT SEEN

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

(Copyright, 1926, by United News.)

Washington, September 20.—The administration is ready to abandon its effort to join the world court unless the signatories meeting at Geneva drop their present tentative formula regarding the fifth senate reservation and take some action indicating acceptance rather than apparent evasion.

The senate's fifth reservation stipulates among other things that the world court shall not entertain a request from the league council for an advisory opinion in any question in which the United States claims an interest without this government's consent.

The Geneva committee of 14 representing league signatories of the proposal, met this reservation with the proposal that the United States be granted equal rights with those of all members of the league council.

Misconception Seen.

This formula was taken on a cue offered under a misconception by President Coolidge at White Pine camp recently. Understanding that all requests by the league council for advisory opinions from the court must be made by unanimous vote, the president said that the purpose of the senate reservation was merely to place the United States on an equal footing with all members of the league council. However it has developed in Geneva that nobody knows exactly whether advisory opinions must be ordered by unanimous or majority vote and that the league assembly may ask for advisory opinions. So that were the United States to accept the formula offered at Geneva of an equal voice with any league member, it might find itself tied up in votes where majority action alone would be sufficient—directly contrary to the stipulation in the senate reservation that no such action could be taken without the consent of the United States.

It is an intricate point but it is the crux of the whole question as to whether the United States shall enter the court only on the conditions stated in the reservations. The president's hands are tied and he will not accept any compromise that goes beyond the senate's limitations.

Sufficient warning to deter the president from doing otherwise was given today by Senator Willis, of Ohio, one of the strongest pro-court republicans and a member of the foreign relations committee. He called at the white house to invite the president to speak in the Ohio campaign and did not discuss the court, but on leaving the white house, Willis said:

"There would not be three votes in the senate for any such proposition as they are making at Geneva. It is an insult to the intelligence of the American people. It sidesteps the senate reservation entirely. There is only one thing that can be done—they have our reservations over there. They can take them or leave them."

That is an expression from one of the court's best friends among republican senators. It is quite mild beside the vocabulary of some of the other republican senators.
